Daffodils May Miss Easter Market

Saanich growers don't expect to have more than 10 per cent of the daffodils required for the eastern Canadian Easter trade. Hothouse flowers are ready, but the field crops have been seriously slowed by cold. G. A. Vantreight, Jr., Tyndall avenue, Gordon Head, has 85 acres in daffs, 12 in tulips and three in iris. "I have orders for 250,000 dozen," he told The Daily Colonist yesterday, "and I can't confirm one of them." However, there are other markets besides the usually lucrative eastern centres at Easter, he says.

Here Mr. Vantreight demonstrates height of field growth, about five inches, when it should be eight at this time. "There won't be any bloom until 10 days after Easter," he said, "unless we get some days of 70-degree weather." There is small hope of that, growers agree. While loss in blooms may be heavy, bulbs have not been seriously affected by frost.—(Colonist photos by Bud Kinsman)

Gas for Island

Start on Pipeline Across Strait Possible by May

Start on a $6,000,000 submarine pipeline from Anacortes to Saanich peninsula to bring natural gas to Victoria and to points as far north as Nanaimo may be made by May of this year, Ralph Farris of Magna Pipelines told The Daily Colonist last night.

He said the University of Washington oceanographic department has prepared an 80-page report on the feasibility of the project, and its findings indicate an early start.

Consulting engineers of Vancouver, the B. D. Bohna Company, are studying the report along with their own survey and are expected to bring in a final report within two weeks.

Mr. Farris said his company has held many conferences with pipeline contractors and so far has not encountered "one unfavorable attitude. All have been positive the job can be accomplished."

B.C. Electric Co. would distribute the natural gas on the Island and if current market analyses, now being made, indicate the necessity, a bigger pipeline than now anticipated, or multiple crossings may be constructed.

Mr. Farris said it is the aim of the distributors to supply natural gas from Victoria to Nanaimo and to sell to the large up-Island industrial market, including the Harmac pulp mill and probably, eventually, to the lumbering and pulp industry at Port Alberni.

Natural gas, he explained, could relieve the Island's power shortage.

He added that the up-Island pipeline is expected to cost many times as much as the submarine pipeline, which would be 60 per cent under water, the rest overland by way of the San Juan islands.

He said the University of Washington survey dealt with tides, currents, profile of the ocean floor, temperature changes in the water, potential earthquake hazard, and other vital data.

To make the survey, three boats were used in the Haro and Rossario straits.

The B. D. Bohna survey tackles the problem of what kind of pipe should be used and how it should be laid.

Growers' Appeals Rejected

OTTAWA (BUP)—Agriculture Minister J. G. Gardiner last night turned down West Coast appeals in the commons for federal assistance to British Columbia fruit growers whose plants have been destroyed by heavy frost.

Gardiner said that provincial governments were primarily responsible for replacing plants when they were destroyed or damaged by frost or flood.

"We are not going to make an exception in this case," Gardiner said. "The problem is not so costly or so difficult that the provinces cannot do it."

Tokyo Rose Ordered Out

CHICAGO (AP)—Immigration officials Tuesday ordered Tokyo Rose to leave the United States within a month or face deportation.

The slender, honey-voiced American-born woman decided to remain with her parents in Chicago and fight the deportation proceedings.

Married Happiness Theme of New Series

A sparkling new series of five articles by May Mann, "How to Make a Good Husband," begin today on the new women's page of The Daily Colonist. It is on Page 14.

These are the stories of the happy marriages of such couples as actress Pier Angeli and singer Vic Damone; Dr. and Mrs. Norman Vincent Peale on their 25th wedding anniversary; Sue and Alan Ladd; New York City's first family, Mayor and Mrs. Robert F. Wagner; and the top television stars, Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz.

Retaliation Ready

Sustained Red Attack Termed Impossible

OTTAWA (BUP)—Russia would be unable to make a sustained attack on the North American continent now or in the immediate future, Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, supreme Allied commander in Europe, told a news conference Tuesday.

Any Red assault on this continent, he said, would be a "one-sided affair." If such an attack came, he added, the West would retaliate from bases "in a 360-degree arc around the Soviet."

Gruenther said, however, that Russia probably has the power now to over-run Western Europe. But he added that when German participation in NATO forces is built up over the next four years the Reds will not then be able to over-run Europe.

READY SOON

NATO, he said will have five divisions of West German troops "in a rudimentary stage of training" by the end of 1956.

"Even if the Soviets can over-run Europe now, they would lose the war because of (NATO's) tremendous advantage in long-range air power," General Gruenther said.

Russia's long-range bomber aircraft, he said, are copies of the American B-29, the plane that dropped the A-bomb on Hiroshima. He warned, however, that the Reds are developing their long-range arm rapidly.

"I'm not saying what the situation will be like five years from now," he said. "But our aim is to make an attack so expensive it will never take place.

Copter Firm Grows

Vancouver Island Helicopters Ltd., will spend $80,000 for two new helicopters, to bring its fleet to three such aircraft here, president Ted Henson told The Daily Colonist last night.

The machines will operate out of Patricia Bay airport.

He said the two new whirlybirds will arrive from Fort Worth, Texas, by the end of April.

Mr. Henson said the new company, which started Vancouver Island's first helicopter service last August, has ample contracts to keep the aircraft busy.

"We could operate more helicopters if we could get the aircraft and pilots," he said.

He explained that helicopter pilots are difficult to find and the company has embarked on a policy of training its own from among men experienced in standard aircraft.

Mainland Distributing Centre

Big Expansion Planned By Island Cement Firm

By ALEC MERRIMAN

An expanded and modernized B.C. Cement Company plant at Bamberton, plus newly-developed quarries at Cobble Hill, will feed a proposed distributing centre to be erected on the lower mainland.

Nigel A. Tomlin, president and general manager, told The Daily Colonist yesterday that construction would begin almost immediately on the $1,500,000 depot and distributing centre, either at Coquitlam or Burnaby.

To tap its new lime quarries at Cobble Hill, a 10-mile private road will be built from the $20,000,000 Bamberton plant, construction to start within three months, said Mr. Tomlin.

The road will require a tunnel under the Trans-Canada highway over the Malahat and will cost in the neighborhood of $150,000.

It will be gravelled this summer, eventually paved.

Mr. Tomlin said it will enable the company to get trucks off the highway and also to use larger trucking equipment.

He disclosed for the first time that B.C. Cement has been quarrying limestone for more than two years at Cobble Hill on the old Raymond property.

"There is enough lime there to do us for 50 years," he said.

He added that the B.C. Cement has "inexhaustible supplies of limestone at Texada island, which they are now drilling and using, and more at Blubber Bay and Davies Bay.

"We have more rock now than we ever had," he said. Bamberton is nowhere short of raw materials. It is better off now than it was 30 years ago.

"I can't see the end of Bamberton in your lifetime or mine," he added.

NIGEL TOMLIN

More Employment

He said that in 1956, $500,000 will be spent at Bamberton to install a new finish mill. This will be part of the $3,000,000 expansion on the Island.

"Kiln capacity will be increased by installing a fifth unit, or alternatively by equipping existing four kilns with a pre-heater type of apparatus now being used in Germany and in some parts of the United States," he said.

The labor force at Bamberton will be "increased slightly," he added, and pointed out that B.C. Cement employs, directly, 250 persons and, indirectly, another 1,000.

The company purchases 100,000 tons of Island coal each year.

Mr. Tomlin emphasized that the new expenditures on the mainland in no way indicate that B.C. Cement is planning to move from Bamberton.

"We are expanding to the mainland to provide a direct service for mainland buyers from the new depot, which will supplement existing scow shipments for bulk and sacked cement from the Bamberton works on Saanich Inlet," he said.

No cement manufacturing equipment is included in the mainland expansion.

He said approximately $1,500,000 will be spent on the mainland, involving a dock, cement silos, bagging machines, warehouses, and bulk and sacked cement trucking facilities.

Suitable property has been optioned in Coquitlam and Burnaby.

Glut Possible

Mr. Tomlin stated decision for mainland expansion had been reached in conjunction with John Reiss, a managing director and deputy chairman of Associated Portland Cement Manufacturers Ltd. of London, England, which owns a controlling interest in B.C. Cement.

Associated Portland is the world's largest producer of Portland cement.

In answer to a question involving the future of Bamberton, Mr. Tomlin stated that "the plans of the Lafarge Cement Corporation to build a cement works in the Vancouver area has in no way altered the B.C Cement Company's expansion program."

He said he felt competition was a good thing, and the Bamberton plant would be expanded, as originally stated, to 3,000,000 barrels capacity to take care of large surges in cement consumption.

He cited such projects as the Moran Dam and Mica Creek development.

He admitted that entry of the Lafarge Corporation into the cement field in British Columbia could result in a cement glut on the market, but added, "We have to be ready for great surges in our business. There may be gluts, but all of a sudden you get a big surge."

Britain Resents Rebuke

LONDON (UP) — Britain last night formally demanded an "explanation" from the United States for expressions of sympathy to the Greek government over the Cyprus problem.

The foreign office said British ambassador Sir Roger Makins had been instructed to ask the U.S. state department "for an explanation of the statement issued by the U.S. embassy in Athens this afternoon."

Reports from Athens said that U.S. ambassador Cavendish Cannon told foreign minister Spyros Theotokis of the "sympathetic concern" of the United States over latest developments on Cyprus.

The foreign office made no mention of state department press officer Lincoln White's suggestion that negotiations with Cypriot leaders should be resumed as soon as possible.

But informed diplomatic sources said British official circles were "stagged and embarrassed" by the implied rebuke of Britain's policies on the Mediterranean island.

The sources said the statements embarrassed the government at a time when Britain is trying desperately to bolster its waning prestige in the Middle East and Mediterranean.

Observers considered the American statements as evidence of a widening breach in western policy in the tense, troubled Middle East. France already has criticized the Baghdad Pact, cornerstone of western policy in the area, they said.

Budget Tax Cuts Unlikely

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Harris will unveil his 1956-57 budget at 6 p.m. MST March 20, and though the economy is showing signs of continuing a spectacular advance, prospects of major tax cuts grow dimmer by the hour.

Canadians may find Mr. Harris will shave some tolls slightly while retaining his grip on the bulk of taxes to help balance the government's books and to prevent consumers from spending too much at a time when inflation threatens.

Well-informed sources said Tuesday chances of big tax cuts may be better next year when the current economic expansion may taper off slightly. The Liberals may also be more inclined to sweeten the pot next year when, it is expected, another general election will be fought.

Notorious Assassin Shot Down

JERUSALEM (AP) — The man Israelis call the most notorious hired assassin in the Middle East is dead.

An Israeli police spokesman disclosed Tuesday night that Mustapha Hassan Abud died in a hail of bullets last Friday as police chased an attacking gang away from the Israeli village of Noham.

Mustapha, alias El Samueil Vauwi, was a 33-year-old Jordanian. He lived by his tommy-gun. The Israelis say he killed with it on the orders of the highest bidder.

Princess Falls In

LA MADDALENA, Sardinia (AP)—Queen Elizabeth's 19-year-old cousin, Princess Alexandra of Kent, was reported to have fallen into the sea here Tuesday.

She climbed out, chilled but unhurt.

The semi-official Italian news agency Ansa said it happened when the princess went ashore with the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh for a walk.

Rats Chew Child — In Filthy Rooms

If My Baby Dies I'll Burn That Slum!

DETROIT (UP)—The father of a five-month-old boy who was savagely chewed by rats yesterday vowed to burn his slum home if the child dies.

Empress Connors, unemployed, uttered the threat through tears after his son, Nathaniel, was bitten more than 20 times on the face and arm.

The thumb and little finger of one hand virtually were chewed away. The infant's face was raw from bites on his tongue, nose, chin and cheek by the rodents which invaded his crib.

Doctors said Nathaniel's condition was "serious" and it would be some time before they learned whether infection sets in. A hospital spokesman said a rat's bite was second in danger of infection only to that of a human.

Connors made the gruesome discovery when he awoke early yesterday in his dark, grimy, five-room flat. His wife, Marion, 20, said she fed the baby—who has three brothers under four years of age—at 2 a.m. and noticed nothing wrong.

Policewomen described the second-floor rear flat as a "filthy hovel." They said the dwelling, one of four in the building, was unpainted and littered with debris.

Mrs. Connors was held for investigation of neglect.

Connors said he had complained about rats to the landlord, Ben Magid, and was given some powder and wood fabric and wire to plug up the holes.

"We can hear the rats in the walls at night," Connors said. "They crawl across the floor in the daytime.

"If my baby dies, I'm going to burn that place down."

Pet Ocelot Caught Eating Two-Month-Old Boy's Toes

WASHINGTON (UP)—A pet ocelot owned by an animal-loving couple chewed off all of the toes from the foot of their two-month-old boy in suburban Maryland yesterday.

Police found the ocelot, seven Siamese cats, a jaguarondi and a dog running freely in the house. The jaguarondi is a meat-eating otter-like animal of the cat family. The ocelot is a small, leopard-like animal.

The baby was in serious condition in Prince George's General hospital after spending more than three hours in the operating room.

The cat attacked the baby in an upstairs nursery while the boy's one-year-old sister played nearby. The girl was unharmed.

The baby's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Perry, were away on a trip to New York.

A handyman who had been left in charge of the children during the parents' absence said he went to the nursery when he heard the baby crying.

When he saw what was happening he snatched the animal from the crib.

The handyman told police the boy had been bitten by the ocelot about two weeks ago and had been injured on his left ear and right arm.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

SOME people feel that newspapers are "out to get them," and will never give them a fair deal.

To most newspapermen, this state of mind is an everlasting puzzle.

There are certain groups who can never shed their delusions of persecution.

Some labor union members are among them. They think that the newspapers deliberately twist or leave out their point of view.

An honest reporter, doing his best to bring back a coherent account of what goes on at a meeting, is at a loss to understand this attitude.

An honest desk man, putting forth every effort to fit the reporter's account in the available space, and write a headline that describes what has been said and done, is also bewildered by this feeling of hostility.

The chief trouble seems to be that people confuse the editorial viewpoint of a newspaper with its policy of reporting the news.

The editorial page of a newspaper is devoted mainly to opinion. It may be valid opinion, or it may not. But it is a page of opinion, and people should accept it as such.

Columns like this contain a mixture of opinion and fact, both of which, I hope, are labelled for what they are.

But the news columns are mainly devoted to reporting facts.

* * *

Some papers, it is true, distort facts to fit a point of view. But an honest newspaper tries its best to convey facts as they are.

Nearly all the staff members of Victoria newspapers belong to a labor union. They do not allow their membership in labor unions to color their reporting of facts. If they did, they would be falling in their duty to their paper and the public.

And yet—with a sense of weariness and frustration—they listen to some union men, and other groups, accuse the press of slanted reporting.

* * *

There is only a limited amount of space to go around. Reporters make mistakes. Desk men sometimes err in editing copy, or in writing headlines.

But as far as I know, there is absolutely no discrimination against any group in the presentation of news. The only criterion is:—What happened, and are enough people interested in it to justify its being put in print?

If anyone thinks that this assertion is wrong, a number of people on this newspaper and others, I am sure, would like to hear from them.

It Was Dark When He Lay Down

Slapstick comedy became real when police were chasing a suspected burglar in a dark Montreal shoe store. While police ran up and down the aisles, the suspect, George Christin, was reclining peacefully in what he thought was a cupboard. But the cupboard was shown as a glass showcase when a photographer fired a flash bulb to take this photo and Mr. Christin did not long enjoy his rest.—(CPC)

'Dangerous', Says Authority Of Mrs. Arsens' Cancer Cure

VANCOUVER (CP) — There is "absolutely nothing to support" a cancer cure theory advanced recently by a member of the British Columbia legislature, the director of one of the United States' leading cancer research institutes said here Tuesday.

Dr. C. P. Rhoads, 57, director of the Sloan Kettering Institute for Cancer Research, said in an interview there was also "some danger" in the announcement made last month by Mrs. Lydia Arsens, Social Credit member of the legislature for Victoria.

Mrs. Arsens' theory—to feed a cancer patient more potassium than usual and eliminate all forms of sodium—met with harsh criticism when she gave it on the floor of the legislature.

COULD BE FATAL

Dr. Rhoads said his New York centre "makes every effort to explore this sort of thing . . . no matter how absurd."

"We have heard such claims of cures for many years, and of people who have been cured by these fantastic methods.

"Thousands of these claims have been investigated, but none have been substantiated."

Dr. Rhoads, here to address the annual convention of the British Columbia section of the Canadian Cancer Society, said also that "if a person chose one of these highly fantastic cure methods it could cost him his life."

India had a record output of 1,260,000 tons of finished steel in 1955 against 1,243,000 tons the previous year.

Science Shrinks Piles

New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain. Thousands have been relieved—without resort to surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called *Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Health Officer To Probe Action on Smoke Nuisance

The Victoria-Esquimalt medical health officer was instructed yesterday to find out from the city engineer what Victoria is doing about its smoke nuisance.

The union board of health asked for a report after school trustee Richard Reeve, peering into the late-afternoon gloom, asked if the board shouldn't concern itself with the matter of smoke.

"I don't want to discourage industry," he said, "but I do think there are means on the market of controlling smoke."

* * *

The medical health officer, Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy, reported she had been unable to give an answer when asked, during an Arnprior civil defence course, what the views of the board were on civil defence.

"LEFT OUT"

"Has civil defence been organized to the stage where anyone can logically go into it?" asked Coun. G. K. Sammon of Esquimalt.

"Wouldn't the board feel that if civil defence had been properly organized, we couldn't be caught in the position of not having an opinion? We've been left right out of it."

"In other words," said Mr. Reeve, "a lot of good money has been spent and what have we got for it?"

Dr. Mahaffy said the civil defence co-ordinator, Roger Peachey, was getting to the root of the matter of why the people of Victoria were lethargic about civil defence, and "I think we'll find some entirely different thinking about it."

Coun. Sammon said he thought the board would feel very guilty if it ever washed its hands of civil defence.

ICE CREAM

Sanitary Inspector Elwood Gropp told the board his department would continue studies of ice cream sanitation and probably would make some recommendations for improvements, although he expected the new Milk Act regulations would contain stiffer provisions for the handling of ice cream in stores.

Studies in the past year, he said, showed milk, milk-shakes and soft ice cream sold in cafes and restaurants in Victoria met sanitary requirements satisfactorily, but that bulk ice cream served by the dish or cone did not reach a satisfactory standard.

* * *

Coun. Sammon and Mr. Gropp were empowered to see the provincial agriculture minister and ask him to establish a meat inspection depot in the vicinity of Victoria—"lay the fact before him that in our opinion they (the provincial government) are sidestepping the issue."

IN FORCE MAY 1

Victoria's meat inspection by-law is due to go into effect May 1. It will require that all meat sold in Victoria bear the stamp of approval of a federal, provincial or city inspector.

Mr. Gropp said there apparently would be no government-supervised inspection stations or slaughterhouses in operation in the district by May 1.

FIRST IMMIGRANTS

The Eskimos, like the first Indians, are believed to have come to North America across the Bering strait.

Mr. Reeve suggested that the city enforce the by-law and let the provincial government bear the criticism from Island farmers for not providing the inspection.

Esquimalt declined to pass a similar by-law, Coun. Sammon said, because it regarded meat inspection as a provincial responsibility.

Garden Notes

Deep Trench Not Necessary

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

When I first tried my hand at growing sweet peas, I read everything I could get my hands on before starting on the job. While some of the instructions were contradictory, every writer agreed that the only way to grow sweet peas was to start by digging a trench.

While the idea of so much hard labor appalled me, I gritted my teeth and got busy, taking out a trench over four feet deep—one book suggested six feet—and filling it up with all kinds of goodies; layers of manure, compost, bone meal, chopped turf and the like, making something like a clubhouse sandwich for the roots to feed upon.

PERFORMED WELL

My sweet peas performed very well indeed, providing lots of "fours" and a few "fives" on nice long stems, and I was quite proud of myself. However, a nagging doubt began to haunt my mind: Was all that work really necessary? Do sweet pea roots actually plunge that deep into the bowels of the earth, exploiting those layers of manure and bone meal, with the vines putting on a spurt of growth as each new layer of goodies was encountered?

"I hadn't noticed any sudden accelerations of vine growth. And none of the garden books had suggested any such deep preparation of the ground for the peas in the vegetable patch which are, after all, just another variety of the same critter. So, to settle the question that was plaguing me, I dug down carefully alongside a few of the plants to find out what the roots were doing.

I couldn't find any roots deeper than eight inches!

The roots had branched laterally, and seemed to be getting along quite nicely on what nutrients were contained in the top eight inches of soil—most of them were in the top six inches. And all those goodies, buried away down deep, were contributing absolutely nothing to the success of my sweet peas.

ROOTS ROT

Since that time, I have never bothered digging a deep trench for these flowers. In fact, whenever we get an unduly wet spring, I have seen many cases where the sweet peas have failed dismally, simply because the deep trench has acted as a sump for all the surface water, and the roots have rotted.

Nowadays, I prepare the site for my sweet peas by digging it over to the full depth of my spade—no deeper—and incorporating lots of compost or rotted manure, but mixing it thoroughly with the soil rather than arranging it in layers. I make the site wider than before, too, to encourage the roots to spread laterally throughout the upper layer where there are lots of the beneficial bacteria to help out.

FOOD FROM AIR

The manure and compost are used more for their effect on the texture of the soil than for the nutrients they contain, because the sweet pea, like all legumes, get a lot of their food from the air through action of the nitrogen-manufacturing bacteria which take up residence in those little swellings on the roots.

I add bone meal and wood ashes to provide the phosporus and potash which the bacteria can't supply, plus quite a bit of lime, because these friendly, microscopic assistants cannot thrive in acid soil.

I can guarantee that this kind of soil preparation, plus a nice heavy mulch over the roots to keep them cool and moist, will give you sweet peas every bit as good as the most ardent grave-digger.

Woman Admits Poisoning Husbands, Mother, Children

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — A 49-year-old waitress has admitted killing two of her five former husbands, three children and her mother with arsenic poisoning.

Circuit solicitor William F. Thetford said Tuesday a written statement was signed by Mrs. Rhonda Bell Martin, who is held on a murder charge in the death of one of her former husbands, Claude Martin.

Thetford said she also admitted poisoning Ronald Martin, her former stepson and now her fifth husband. Thetford said Ronald is in hospital, paralyzed from the waist down due to arsenic poisoning.

The auburn-haired, 170-pound former resident of Montgomery was arrested Friday night while leaving a restaurant where she worked in Mobile, Ala. She was charged with murder for the 1951 death of Claude Martin in Montgomery.

Martin's body has been exhumed and, Thetford said, showed evidence of arsenic.

ANT POISON

The solicitor said the waitress signed a statement admitting that she poisoned Ronald Martin and the following other relatives by using ant poison: Second husband George Garrett, her mother, and three children by Garrett. The children are Emogene Garrett, 3, died in 1937; Ann Carolyn Garrett, 6, died in 1940; and Ellyn Elizabeth Garrett, 11, died in 1943.

Thetford said Mrs. Martin was vague as to the reason for the poisoning but admitted she received insurance money after all six deaths.

Falling Sign Kills Woman

SEATTLE (AP) — An automobile rammed a stop sign at a street intersection Monday. The sign toppled, striking and fatally injuring one of two women waiting for a traffic light to change.

Mrs. Kikuie Hirata, 63, died on the way to hospital. Mrs. Fugi Ogishima was treated for head injuries.

Police said Gordon Kloppel told them his brakes failed when he tried to stop as the traffic light changed.

Victoria's Share Less

New Plan To Share Costs Advanced by Health Board

Victoria-Esquimalt Union Board of Health recommended yesterday to Victoria, Esquimalt and Greater Victoria school board that they agree to share its net costs on a new basis.

The new formula, City Manager C. C. Wyatt estimated, would decrease the city's share by roughly $16,000, increase Esquimalt's share by $1,350 and increase the school board's share by $14,750. He emphasized that these figures were only approximations.

The formula was worked out by Mr. Wyatt on the basis of payment for services supplied. The city's shase would be 62.4 per cent, Esquimalt's, 8.6 per cent, and the board's, 29 per cent.

Reasoning behind the formula, Mr. Wyatt said, was that if Victoria operated a health department to meet its own needs, any further expenditure should be borne by the other benefitting components of the board.

Coun. G. K. Sammon of Esquimalt, board chairman, agreed with an opinion given by City Solicitor T. P. O'Grady that the original intention was that Victoria would render service to Esquimalt for a set amount, and that the board would be only an advisory body.

CHANGE AGREEMENT

He said the parties to the agreement could change the agreement, and that was what Mr. Wyatt was suggesting.

Coun. Sammon said he thought the new formula would require Esquimalt to pay for more service than it was getting, but "we feel we couldn't begin to set up a health department in Esquimalt for this fee."

The board, said Trustee Richard Reeve, was "more or less sitting in a position where we may find a lot of good work has gone for nought—that we have an authority which is not a health authority (city council) sitting over us."

Government Won't Talk Of Interview

Government spokesmen had no comment yesterday on reports that an RCMP investigator probing evidence in the Sturdy-Sommers case had flown to Los Angeles to interview the so-called "mystery witness" Charles Eversfield.

Mr. Eversfield is alleged to have provided documents for Vancouver lawyer David Sturdy which sparked the slander suit against him launched by Robert E. Sommers, former minister of lands, forests, and mines, who resigned Feb. 27.

Mr. Sommers, during his resignation speech, accused Mr. Eversfield of attempting to "shake down" his former employers in Vancouver.

Mr. Eversfield is now a resident of the U.S.

It Is Not Much To Ask

THAT some holders of equity stocks in Canada should be treated differently from others by reason of the confinement of transfer and registration functions to one or other of the two Provinces imposing separate succession duties is neither good law nor common sense. Since he first referred to this matter Mr. Harry Young, business editor of the Colonist, has heard expressions of opinion from the executives of many highly-placed Canadian firms. Almost unanimously they concede the point that the present position is anomalous: unfair to those who are domiciled outside Ontario and Quebec. Some have said that their boards will examine the question, with a view to action.

The cure would not be difficult. So far as this paper is aware only equity stocks (that is, the holding of property in this form) registerable and transferable solely in Ontario or Quebec can render the estates of those domiciled outside these two provinces liable in many instances to extra taxation at a provincial level. The provision of one transfer office and registry anywhere in Canada outside Ontario and Quebec would break that unwarranted hold for the non-resident shareholders. It would be in the firm interest of any concern to make that concession if it is able to do so. Failure to remove such an unfair technicality might be difficult to justify in the light of the attendant circumstances.

Improved Traffic Control

SIGNAL lights of the "walk" type used in Vancouver should help greatly to speed both vehicular and pedestrian traffic through busy intersections in downtown Victoria, and it is encouraging therefore to see that the council is giving the matter study. Initially Vancouver installed "walk" lights at only one or two of the busiest intersections, notably Hastings and Granville. That was many years ago, and since then the system has been widely extended throughout the heart of the city, so it may be taken that "walk" controls are a big improvement over the old stop-and-go signals which Victoria continues to use.

The chief point in favor of the "walk" signal is that it helps both pedestrians and drivers. When the light is in his favor a pedestrian wishing to reach the corner diagonally opposite may proceed there directly, instead of having to wait for two signal changes and make a right-angled crossing. This is due to the fact that the signal halts all vehicular traffic on both streets instead of only one.

The advantage for motorists is that it enables them to make right turns without falling foul of pedestrian streams as at present, when it is often difficult to complete a right turn whether the light is green or red. This is one of the worst drawbacks of the existing stop-and-go system, especially on narrow streets where a car blocked by people afoot from turning right may tie up traffic which otherwise could proceed.

The expense of changing the present system no doubt would be heavy, but it is difficult to see how congestion at some of the downtown intersections can be relieved otherwise. If the council decides to extend the prohibition of left turns, which seems inevitable, many more right turns will have to be made than at present, and with the present signal system vehicle drivers would be subjected to endless delays in trying to break through the pedestrian streams, from which they receive very little co-operation.

A Parliamentary Lesson

FOR the second time in the space of a few weeks the British House of Commons has recorded a majority vote against capital punishment. The first was in effect only an expression of opinion, this week's division was on a private member's bill that makes government action mandatory. The House of Lords can and may hold up the legislation for a prescribed year, the limit of its restrictive power, but after that if it so desires the Commons may enact the measure into law. If the present mood is sustained then capital punishment in Britain is on the way out, at least for a trial period.

From the parliamentary angle the interesting feature of the Westminster action is that it was the result of what is called a "free" vote; that is, all party members were at liberty to vote as conscience decided and not as a party line dictated. The whips were called off, in Britain not too frequent an occurrence and in Canada one seldom heard of. Obviously the inference is that parliamentary votes are normally not free and members are compelled to adhere to an ordained policy. In the present instance for example, the Eden government is opposed to abolition of capital punishment, which means that in this free vote many of its supporters chose not to support it.

Writing to an American magazine a British Tory MP says there is a lesson for everybody in this exercise of House of Commons opinion, and he cites it as a welcome sign of parliamentary freedom for those who have despaired of modern trends. There is much food for thought in that remark, for this country as well as his own. Too often it has been apparent that MPs, and on the lesser level MLAs also, are dragooned into voting as their party determines, no matter their own private opinions.

Government and their oppositions must secure a reasonable degree of unity in their own ranks else parliamentary affairs would be stultified. Our system is based on majority rule and that presupposes the ascendancy of party policy over private opinion. Far more room should exist for personal divergence nevertheless. Members can and sometime do express views in opposition to the party stand but not nearly often enough, and when a vote is called on an important measure invariably they meekly obey the party whip.

If there is to be a lesson drawn by Canadians from the recent Westminster action it is that free votes should be much more common. If they were then contentious problems would be settled by the majority vote of Parliament and not merely determined in advance by the cabinet. In this way Parliament would speak more clearly for the nation it represents than it does at present and parliamentary government would approximate more closely its original premise. Actually where members slavishly accept the whip on practically all matters of moment the parliamentary system tends not to differ materially from that of one-party totalitarian states which brook no opposition.

Interpreting the News

Neutralism Is Risky

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

ONE of the great problems of the Western world is that neutralism, now newly proclaimed by the Arabs, actually has a non-neutral effect in fostering Soviet plans.

The Moslems are talking about an active world neutralist movement among themselves, in an attempt to unify Asian concepts, led by Prime Minister Nehru of India, with those of Premier Nasser of Egypt.

* * *

The stated objectives are "defence against Zionist aggression and foreign domination."

The West realized long ago that something had to be substituted for "domination" in its relationship with backward areas. It found that exploitation had produced responsibilities which the empire builders never expected. It found itself facing a nationalist revolution among the producers of raw materials who could not develop their resources for themselves but were no longer willing to have others do it for them and take the profits.

* * *

A translation of this situation into more general prosperity came to be an accepted necessity. But the difficulties were terrific, the under-developed peoples impatient, and time short.

The nationalistic revolution in the East coincided with the Communist revolution in the West which had begun somewhat earlier.

* * *

Now the Communists, representing a long-outdated imperialism, are using the nationalist revolution for their own purposes.

The Middle East's wagon has been hitched to the British star for a long time. Now it has become unhitched. The countries individually and collectively are seeking a means of pulling their own load. And they are running the risk of winding up as satellites of the only remaining imperialist power.

* * *

Russia believes that she can win the cold war by cutting the ties between such countries and Western Europe, so weakening the latter that communism can take over. If that should happen, there would be neither a moral nor a material barrier standing between the small nations and complete subjugation. They would have jumped out of a rapidly-cooling frying pan into an everlasting fire.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

I SEE by the ads that this is Tea-for-Canada Week, which rather inclines me to rise and shout "three cheers." Certainly many less salubrious weeks are celebrated nowadays.

You will gather from this opening gambit that I am an addict, and indeed I am. A regular tea-jennie, they tell me.

I believe statistics affirm that far more tea than coffee is drunk in Canada, a fact that may surprise you as much as do the weatherman's figures when he proves how wrong your recollections are. At least if you have the morning coffee habit, the tea drinker, you are bound to notice, seems to be the exception.

I know I am wherever I go. To confess the truth many of my friends looks askance and shake their heads even while catering to my peculiarity. But I am in good company. You know about Dr. Johnson, whom Bothwell immortalized. He owned a legendary Brown Betty that held three quarts and once drank 62 cups in one day.

This is rather overdoing it, though; ten or twelve is enough.

Then, and I discover this much to my astonishment for I always thought his taste ran in a much different direction, there was Jack London, whom I doubt you ever read now but you should. He wrote of a neighbor:

He came in
When I was out
To borrow some tea,
Was why he came in,
And he went without;
So I was in
And he was out.

* * *

Of course there is tea and tea. There is that pale anaemic liquid that looks as though a tea bag had been dipped in water and then withdrawn, and there is the real mackay. For yours truly the latter consists of tea, plenty of it, dutifully infused for a few minutes. Five I believe is a requisite number but you can hurry the process by stirring the leaves or, if the tea is in bags, by pressing a spoon against the bags to spread the savor quickly.

The teapot should be hot, naturally, and boiling water should be used; and what an affliction when it is not.

This technique results in a lovely near-black liquid that is nectar to drink. I add cream and sugar, a habit that offends some tea-drinkers but which Charles Lamb blessed as a delicacy and I agree with him.

And yet, you know, the most wonderful cup of tea I ever drank was at a place called Aboukir and it was sans either milk or sugar. But that was because the refreshment came at the end of an exhausting foodless day and, I will now admit, it probably just seemed wonderful.

Tea, you see, is a great pick-me-up, which doubtless is why ladies hold so many afternoon conclaves round the cups. Funny then that men are supposed to make better tea than women!

I hadn't before thought of tea in relation to athletes but I see where a sports coach also goes into ecstasies about the cup into which Queen Victoria dipped her cookies. Says he: "Tea is unique in its action, since it soothes and cheers as well as stimulates, is easy to digest and does not have any unpleasant rebound of any kind."

That sounds very much like a TV commercial but if it's true that hockey teams revive their muscles with tea between periods I shall go along with him. In my athletic days we found lump sugar to be the best energy restorative during games.

* * *

In any case the hockey teams are on the right track. Tea began with a man who needed a spur. He was a Buddhist who sat out a nine-year penance of no sleep and all of a sudden found himself drowsing. To punish himself he plucked his eyebrows and threw them on the ground. From these sprouted the tea plant, whose leaves kept him awake for the rest of his penance.

To think then that when we drink tea we really drink eyebrows!

However, I don't suppose you will believe that story although it is as good as any other and much better than most. It seems to be fact anyway that tea as a beverage is 4,000 years old, which is surely ample excuse for being a tea-jennie.

I don't mean to bore you with any more tea yarns and I'm not privy to this Tea-for-Canada Week, but maybe I should tell you that the Russians sip their tea through a lump of sugar; the Koreans suck raw eggs with theirs; the Burmese pickle tea as a salad; the Tibetans boil theirs for days with rancid butter; the Moors mix green tea with sugar and mint; the Siamese don't bother with water but chew the tea with salt, and . . .

But that's enough of esoteric practices.

A few years back there was a contest for couplets, and this was a favorite:

Long after Hitler has ceased to be,
People will go in drinking tea.

Not very poetic, but so true. The khans and the moguls may come and go but the Buddhist's eyebrows grow for ever. Thank goodness.

Long and Patient Search

Chemicals in Cancer Treatment

By DAVID BARNETT, from Washington

THE largest group of volunteers in medical history has been mobilized during the past year in a search for a "pill-type" therapy for cancer.

Members of the House of Representatives appropriations sub-committee were told about the mass, co-ordinated attempt to find anti-cancer chemicals by Dr. Sidney Farber, professor of pathology at Harvard University and head of the cancer chemotherapy national committee. The testimony, taken in closed session on Feb. 16, was released this month.

The search for chemicals that will kill cancer cells is of vital importance to the 50 per cent of the patients who have "what must be called an incurable disease," Dr. Farber reported.

Roughly 25 to 50 per cent of patients with cancer could be cured by surgery or irradiation if early diagnosis could be assured in all cases, he pointed out.

Others are "incurable because the tumor is disseminated throughout the body from the beginning of the disease or because the diagnosis cannot be made before the tumor has spread," the doctor explained.

* * *

The hope for these patients is a chemical substance that can be injected into the body, that then will seek out and destroy the cancer cells without unduly damaging normal cells.

The search for suitable chemicals involves a gigantic job of testing more than 100,000 chemical compounds. Nobody can tell which chemical may turn up with anti-cancer attributes, because the nature of cancer is not known.

And, said Dr. Farber, "I think we may learn to cure cancer before we understand the nature of it."

Furthermore, the job is not like searching for one needle in a haystack. One chemical may be valuable for one type of cancer and useless for another. "Cancer," Dr. Farber explained, "should be regarded as many different diseases all grouped together under the same term."

The first break-through in cancer chemotherapy came less than 10 years ago with the discovery that "chemical agents taken by mouth or injected into the vein could cause the death of large masses of tumors scattered throughout the body but not in all patients and not in all kinds of cancer," the doctor reported.

Some compounds are now in use in almost every hospital, but most involve temporary relief and control of some special kinds of cancer.

* * *

Since 1946, the Sloan-Kettering Institute has been testing chemicals on tumors in mice. Of some 15,000 compounds and thousands of simple chemicals screened, only 15 showed sufficient promise to be tried on humans.

Dr. Farber pointed out that the effectiveness of a compound on mice tumors is no assurance that it will be helpful on humans.

But he noted a "great advance" in the screening process. This was the discovery by Dr. Harry Eagle of a method of growing human cancer cells and normal cells in flasks. Dr. Farber added:

"At the present time, with the help of Dr. Eagle, and the Cancer Chemotherapy National Service Centre, a collaborative program has been set up in a few parts of the country, speeding this work to find if this can be used as a method of screening chemical components for anti-cancer activity, by testing the chemical in a bottle in which is growing a human cancer cell."

* * *

The service centre was set up one year ago, under Dr. Kenneth Endicott, at the National Institute of Health, in Maryland.

Drawn into the search by the National Cancer Institute have been the American Cancer Society, the Damon Runyon Fund, the Atomic Energy Commission, the Food and Drug Administration, the Veterans' Administration, and every major chemical company in the country.

The chemotherapy service centre, using federal funds, has contracted for screening in four parts of the country of chemicals using the mouse tumor system.

Arrangements are being made with 40 hospitals throughout the country for clinical testing on humans of chemicals that show promise of anti-cancer activity.

The service centre also serves as a clearing house for information by communicating quickly discoveries made by investigators to all others working on cancer chemotherapy.

Dr. Farber told the sub-committee that the service centre now was setting up two other panels of co-operative work: one to work on hormones; the other, on antibiotics.

"We have discovered," he said, that there are anti-cancer effects produced by antibiotics, materials similar to penicillin, and so on.

"That discovery has simply made mandatory the study of every antibiotic that we have available and a search for new antibiotics for anti-cancer activity."

Spelling Bee Revived

(From The Toronto Telegram)

THE spelling bee was once a permanent fixture in the school curriculum. In the days when slide films and other "aids for the modern classroom" were still far in the future, teacher would use spare minutes by dividing pupils into two camps and setting them against each other for spelling honors.

Now the Ontario Educational Association is reviving the spelling bee on an Ontario-wide scale. It is a welcome revival. Pupils are finding fun and competitive thrills, and teachers a profitable channel for arousing interest in an otherwise "dry subject." This first annual Ontario Spelling Bee has enlisted the support of principals, inspectors, trustees, parents and others.

The bee begins in the public schools, from which winners rise to the inspectorate division, then to the zone division, and eventually to the provincial finals to be held at the Ontario College of Education on April 5. Rural schools are taking as active an interest in the contest as are city institutions. They have a reputation for being adept spellers, and it will be interesting to see how they fare in a meeting with urban pupils. As the bee reaches the zone division finals the girls are distinguishing themselves. The "best boy" and "best girl" will meet in the final spell-off to decide the Ontario champion. Cy Mack, radio personality, will act as spell-master for the zone finals and John Fisher, CBC's "Mr. Canada," for the provincial finals.

This is a project which is helping to improve educational standards for Canadian boys and girls.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

THERE is a scornful type of merchant who cannot abide the pretensions of his customers, and it is a wonder he does any business at all. You find him most commonly among druggists, sporting goods dealers and textile salesmen. A good druggist is one who gives the customer what he wants, especially liniments, painkillers and cough cures, and shows real interest when the customer relates how his grandmother swore by goose grease for all chest ailments. A successful sporting goods dealer is one who frankly admits he knows nothing about sport, and never bats an eye or twitches a lip when his customer describes how he shot a bounding deer at 300 yards, and wants some more 44-40 ammunition.

But then there is the textile salesman who, when a customer with a knowing air fondles a piece of tweed and says "Ah, the real stuff!" snorts in indignation and retorts that it is shoddy. And then produces a piece of the real stuff, to show the ignoramous what real stuff feels like. And there is the sporting goods dealer who, when the gentleman about town drops in to chit-chat about dry flies, soon detects the phoney and heaps him with scorn. And the druggist who, when he jams his own finger in the sliding wall cabinet, won't put any of his medicaments on it whatever, but bathes it, and leaves it to the air and his own good health to repair it. Like a watchful schoolmaster, he governs his shop, offering a hale and cynical advice to all his customers and treating their old wives' notions about drugs and healing with derision.

It's a wonder they do any business, these characters; but they do. To the textile man's shop come all the canny buyers of cloth. The sporting goods dealer's shop is the mecca of all the sage sportsmen of the town. And what the cranky druggist loses on patent medicines he makes up in the prescriptions of all the best doctors of the district, who know an honest apothecary when they see one.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

"The trouble with our fashion designers is that they don't seem to realize how conservative men are. It doesn't matter whether it's his slippers, his books, a woman's waist or a woman's bust—he like to find them always in the same place."

—Antoine, the Paris Hairdresser.

These new tight-fitting sheath dresses are undoubtedly fine for most of the girls; but how about the musician in the symphony orcestra who will have to play her 'cello side-saddle?

An Irishman back from a tour with the Foreign Legion was relating his adventures in Morroco in a Dublin pub and was washing down each episode with a bumper of good old usquebaugh.

"Ammunition, food, whisky—all had gone, and we were dying of thirst," he said.

"But wasn't there an oasis somewhere near?" a listener wanted to know.

"Sure, there was!" the interrupted narrator replied. "But this was no moment to think of washing, man!"

A new refrigerator can be opened from the inside—a wonderful safety feature and also useful for checking to be sure the little light inside really does go out when you shut the door.

With the Classics

Poets, like painters, thus, unskilled to trace
The naked nature and the living grace,
With gold and jewels cover every part,
And hide with ornaments their want of art.
True wit is nature to advantage dressed,
What oft was thought, but ne'er so well expressed;
Something, whose truth convinced at sight we find,
That gives us back the image of our mind.
As shades more sweetly recommend the light,
So modest plainness sets off sprightly wit.

Letters to the Editor

Tax Big Business

Let me be among the first to congratulate Ald. Donald Smith on his demands for an increase in the small amount of money being paid by big business in Victoria City through its present antiquated trade licence system.

He is expressing the sentiments I have expressed myself in every civic election over the past three years, only I estimated an increase in revenue of $175,000 (see Colonist, Nov. 27, 1953.)

I can see where in the next civic election I will not be a lone candidate calling for a business tax to make big business carry its fair share of Victoria City's tax load.

ELGIN NEISH.

Living Standards

May I make a few remarks on Mr. Hanchard's letter in Sunday's Colonist? As Mr. Hanchard says, he is non-union and, I would gather from his remarks, never has been.

I have attended a good many union meetings, but at no time was anyone denied the right to disagree with union policy. Neither was he threatened in any way if he did disagree; but, as in any organization, if it came to an issue the majority carried the vote.

If the industrialist would consider taking a little less profit instead of tacking any increase in wages onto the article this would alleviate the conditions of pensioners and widows that Mr. Hanchard refers to.

I would further like to point out that the high standard of living which the majority of people are now living under is mainly due to the fight the unions have put up for better living and working conditions. Also the high wages we are getting today are putting more revenue into government hands than ever before.

Would it not seem logical, then, for assistance for the old age pensioners to come from this source instead of bringing our standard of living down to bring their's up?

PHILLIP HARRISON.

Seymour Narrows

The editorial, "Removing Ripple Rock" (March 9). You state "the aim is to remove the menace of both rock and tide at the scene."

As you described, in Seymour Narrows, except during periods of tidal slack water currents may reach very dangerous rates of speed, especially during spring tides. Successful removal of the rock will, presumably, in no way lessen the high speed of these tidal currents.

Therefore it would seem that Seymour Narrows must continue always, as in the past years, to require extra careful navigation.

Hard Winter

One must read with regret the item in the March 6 Colonist from Rocky Mountain House, Alta., concerning the attack on a cat by an owl starved by the severe winter. While it would have been pleasant to hear that the owner of the cat managed to separate the two creatures and give the owl a much-needed meal, perhaps this was impossible, and a topnotch vermin destroyer was sacrificed.

More broadly, the incident again brings to our attention the desperate straits to which wildlife may be reduced in hard weather. On Vancouver Island it is gratifying to note that so many people set up feeding trays to augment the scarce supply of natural food. A custom so commendable could well be more common than it is.

Gross National Product Reaches All-Time Peak

OTTAWA (BUP)—The gross national product—value of all goods and services produced by Canadians—hit a record $26,600,000,000 last year compared with $24,100,000,000 in 1954, the bureau of statistics said Tuesday.

"The year witnessed a sharp recovery from the mild contraction in economic activity which had characterized the period mid-1953 to mid-1954," the bureau said.

The output of goods and services expanded rapidly in 1955 from a gradual rise in the latter part of 1954. The total for the year as a whole was about 10 per cent above 1954's.

Exports of goods and services, which had declined in 1954, recovered strongly last year. They rose by $600,000,000 or 11 per cent.

Mink Men Eye Whale

SIDNEY—Island Fur Co-operative Association is negotiating to purchase 110 tons of whale meat this summer to feed southern Vancouver Island's 50,000 hungry mink.

It is planned to purchase the whale meat from Ajax Fisheries, New Westminster. It would be shipped to Sidney by boat from Anacortes and distributed among 60 lower Island mink breeders, members of the association.

Heavy Water Shipped

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission Tuesday announced the first shipment abroad of heavy water under President Eisenhower's atoms - for-peace program.

The AEC said it has approved the sale of 129 tons of heavy water to six nations and that 16 tons of this had been shipped—11 tons to Britain and five to France. The sales price was $28 a pound, AEC said.

Heavy water is used in several types of reactors, or atomic furnaces, to slow the speed of neutrons emitted in splitting of atoms of the fissionable U-235.

These total amounts were approved for sale:

United Kingdom 50 tons, France 30, India 21, Australia 11, Italy 10, Switzerland up to seven.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 N.T.	Pass	3 N.T.	All Pass

Point count made the bidding of today's deal simple. South with 16 points in high cards, had a classic minimum one no-trump opening. North's 15 points were 3 more than he needed for his jump to game, but not enough to suggest slam. However, even with 29 points in the combined hands instead of the 26 that justify bidding for game at no-trump, declarer discovered that he didn't have an easy nine tricks.

West opened the spade six. Declarer counted seven tricks on top. He could force the establishment of another by knocking out the ace of clubs, but since this would bring his total only to eight, he decided to play for the heart finesse which, if successful, would yield both the extra tricks he needed. Unfortunately, the heart finesse lost. The defenders knocked out South's remaining spade stopper and East pounced on the first club lead to hold declarer to eight tricks.

The solution of South's problem is to be found somewhere in Harry Fishbein's philosophy. Fifty-Seventh Street's genial master of the cards and of the involved triple negative puts it something like this: "Before the deal, the aces and kings can wind up anywhere. Afterwards, nobody can't move no cards around; wherever they are, they stay."

You see what Harry means, of course. If East has the king of hearts, he'll still have it after the second spade stopper is knocked out. Meanwhile, you have everything to gain and nothing to lose by playing a club. If you happen to lead first from South's hand, you won't have done yourself a bit of good. But if you win the spade in dummy and lead the first club from North, you'll make the contract no matter what East does. If he plays low, your queen wins and you're sure to make nine tricks whether the heart finesse wins or loses. (Of course, you don't lead another club.) If East plays the ace, you are bound to win two club tricks. Once again, your total is up to nine — this time without any heart finesse.

Entitled to Nothing, Rita Hayworth Told

LOS ANGELES (AP)—In a brief opinion, a federal judge Tuesday ruled that Rita Hayworth was "entitled to nothing" in her $250,000 breach of contract suit against Columbia Pictures.

The red-tressed actress and her studio bosses engaged in a week-long court battle last December. The action stemmed from her walkout on the picture.

The studio contended that her departure was inspired by Svengali-like manoeuvres of crooner Dick Haymes, then her husband, claimed that if she had waited until a delayed starting date it would have prevented her from taking the Princess Yasmin, her daughter by Aly Khan, to Europe.

The studio contended that her departure was inspired by Svengali-like manoeuvres of crooner Dick Haymes, then her husband.

Three Small Stars

Young Artists Unveil Talent and Presence

By BERT BINNY

The annual talented students' recital presented in the Empress Hotel ballroom by the Musical Arts Society, last night, was enjoyable and admirably arranged.

Of course, this sort of thing offers otherwise unobtainable opportunity and experience to young artists, but yesterday they clearly showed their appreciation of the high standard of their performances.

SIXTEEN ITEMS

There were no fewer than 16 items including piano solos, the children's choir, a speech group, an instrumental trio, a string ensemble and a French horn soloist.

Among the pianists Diana Livesay, Clare May Chapman, Marlene Parfitt, Gordon Britten, Patricia Chatwin and Charlotte Kay were outstanding. A very versatile—if as yet small—lady of parts is Carollyn Grace Heal.

The choir and the speech group were both easy to hear and, indeed, pleasant as well.

PROLONGED APPLAUSE

Kenneth Muir's French horn solos, particularly the Mozart, were greeted with prolonged applause, as was Clare May Chapman's piano Sonatina.

In short there was no inconsiderable unveiling of talent and no little promise of a happy future for musical Victoria.

VICTORIA LISTED FOR COMMONWEALTH GAMES: It may be a long time off, but Victoria is now listed as a site for the Commonwealth amateur golfing tournament when it is first played in Canada.

James P. Anglin, president of the Royal Canadian Golf Association, has written to Leo Derman, secretary of the Victoria district golf committee informing him that the committee's request that the tournament should be held in Victoria had received favorable consideration.

He writes:

"Your letter of Feb. 4 was submitted to a meeting of the board of governors and it was noted with a great deal of pleasure that your association expresses interest in having the Commonwealth matches in Victoria. This was greatly appreciated by the board.

"When the first Commonwealth matches were played at St. Andrews in 1954, the representatives of each of the Commonwealth countries decided in principle that they should be continued. In view of the expense involved it was felt they should be held not oftener than every five years, and it was tentatively agreed that the South African Association invitation for 1959 should be accepted. A final commitment will be made prior to January, 1958.

"If the matches are held in South Africa the question of further meetings will be discussed. Even then it is likely that in the rotation of countries the host country for 1964 would be either Australia or New Zealand.

"You will see, therefore, that it does not look as though Canada would have the opportunity to be host country for another 13 years. That is too far ahead to think about, but I do hope that when the time does come the Victoria district golf committee will still be interested in having the matches played at Victoria as it would, in a great many respects, be a suitable place."

Well, the stone is laid, and maybe we shall just have to wait in patience.

At the same time, the Commonwealth series of games seems the sort of thing that should be associated with certain historic celebrations, and it might be that with the proper approach from the British Columbia government the golf associations could yet be persuaded that the tournament form part of the B.C. centennary celebrations of 1958 or, failing that, the city of Victoria might like to extend the invitation for its incorporation centennary in 1962.

I make the suggestion in the hope it will catch the keen ear of Premier Bennett.

SNOW HAZARD TROUBLES COLWOOD: With Royal Colwood out of play at the weekend owing to snow, the third round of the second winter medal had to be postponed, and it is now planned to stage it on the same course this Sunday.

If Colwood is not clear of its wintry mantle by that time, it is proposed that the final round should be played concurrently with the qualifying round of the Vancouver Island Open on March 25.

With this new arrangement in mind, it now appears that there can be no buttons match until May, as all the April weekends are given over to the Island Open.

The next buttons game scheduled is between the holders Bill McColl and Vic Painter and the challengers Laurie Carroll and Gordon Verley.

In view of winter conditions which make certain courses less vulnerable than others it might be a wise idea to give the Victoria committee some powers to change venues of the buttons games.

On Sunday conditions were good for play at Victoria and Uplands, and moderate at Gorge Vale.

CAPTAIN HART WINS: Although there were two inches of snow all over the course at 8.30 on Saturday morning, the warm sunshine worked wonders and by noon the members of the Victoria golf club were able to carry through their annual president vs. captain match.

For once in a while the captain's men proved their mettle and in winning by 8½ matches to 5½ they earned the right to a free and sumptuous repast, which was followed by a showing of the Seagram's Canadian Championship film.

Gordon Harris, president, and Colin Hart, captain, were excellent hosts and launched the club's season on a happy note.

OPEN ENTRIES NOW CALLED: Don't be put off entering the Vancouver Island Open Championship despite the fact the official entry form says qualifying play on Sunday, March 25, is over 36 holes.

Leo Derman, secretary, confirms that the qualifying test is based on 18 holes and the low 32 gross will take part in the championship with the low 32 net playing under handicap terms.

The entry fee is $3 and entries should be sent to Leo Derman, secretary, Gorge Vale Golf Club, not later than March 21. Only the first 120 entrants will be admitted.

The qualifying test is at Colwood, the first round of match play at Gorge Vale (April 1), the second round at Uplands (April 8), the third round at Victoria (April 15), the semi-finals over 36 holes at Colwood (April 22) and the finals over 36 holes at Gorge Vale.

SENIOR CHALLENGERS WANTED: A new attempt is being made to get the senior buttons matches under way. Challenges will now be accepted from any couple whose ages are over 55. They should be forwarded to Leo Derman at Gorge Vale.

The matches will be played weekly, and the organizers hope to secure the co-operation of the local clubs to grant the courtesy of their courses in rotation, preferably on Sunday afternoons.

WINTER RULES LACK STANDING: Most of the Victoria clubs maintain their handicapping procedure during the winter months while the so-called winter rules are in force.

The U.S. Golf Association in its 1956 book of rules recommends that scores made under winter rules, because of their lack of uniformity, should not be considered for handicap purposes.

NEAR SATURATION POINT: The Victoria Golf Club is now nearly full up. The committee has set limits of membership in the men's, women's and junior classes, and in each case there are less than 10 vacancies left.

Once the limit is reached a waiting list will be established.

Leafs Rally To Beat Rangers

New York Rangers' goalie, Lorne Worsley, sprawls to deflect a shot by Toronto's Tod Sloan, centre, in first period of Saturday's National Hockey League game at Toronto while Rangers' Harry Howell (3) checks Dick Duff, right. Worsley's fine shot-stopping helped Rangers gain an early 2-0 lead, but the Maple Leafs came back to take a 5-2 decision with Sloan firing what turned out to be the winning goal. —(CP)

Basilio 2-1 Choice To Blast Saxton's Title Hopes Tonight

Welterweight champion Carmen Basilio was a 2-1 favorite last night to blast the title hopes of former champion Johnny Saxton in tonight's championship 15-rounder at Chicago.

About 10,000 fans are expected to pay about $75,000 to watch the two mix it up. The fight will be broadcast over ABC on a coast-to-coast network and will be televised on Channel 5 at 7 p.m. Victoria time.

The battle-scarred Basilio, supremely confident, said, "I can beat Saxton or any other welterweight. If I get the opening, I'll go for a knockout. I know Saxton is a better and smarter boxer than Demarco but he doesn't punch as hard. All I hope is that he tries to make a fight for it."

Tony Demarco took the title away from Saxton last April 1 on a 14th round TKO and Basilio then beat Demarco twice, once for the title and once in defence of it.

Since losing to Demarco, Saxton has won four in a row and has a 50-4-2 record with 20 knockouts. Basilio is 48-11-7 with 22 knockouts but has been unbeaten in his last 15 fights.

Cougar Hopes Ruined By 7-0 Canuck Victory

Vancouver Canucks last night almost certainly doomed Victoria Cougars to a second-place finish in the Western Division of the Western Hockey League. Flashing impressive form before jubilant home-town fans, Canucks handed the Cougars a convincing 7-0 setback to take a three-point lead with only two games left for each club.

All Canucks need out of their [illegible] to place a mathematical certainty is a tie. Even if Cougars should win their two games, Canucks would take it because they have scored more goals. Two Vancouver defeats and two Victoria victories is the only combination of results which could leave Cougars ahead when the scheduled season ends Saturday.

Also decided, barring amazing performances in remaining games, were the WHL scoring and goalkeeping championships.

MALONEY BOOSTS LEAD

Vancouver centre Phil Maloney scored his club's first goal and assisted on three others to boost his lead in the individual scoring race to a solid seven points. Maloney has 35 goals and 56 assists for 91 points.

And Ray Mikulan, rookie Vancouver goalkeeper, will have to give up 12 more goals than Marcel Pelletier of the Cougars in the two games both have left to lose the goaling honors, based on a goals-against average per game.

FOURTH SHUTOUT

Mikulan's shutout last night was his fourth against the Cougars and his sixth of the season. The difference between Mikulan and Pelletier is the difference in games between the Canucks and Cougars.

Both clubs had 5-2-1 records at home to break even for the season, each with seven wins and two ties, but the Canucks outscored the Cougars by 12 goals, 43-31, in the 16 games.

Neither club could break through in the tight-checking first period but Canucks took over in the second period, taking advantage of penalties for their first and third goals.

THREE FOR BROWN

Bill Dobbyn was in the penalty box when Maloney opened the scoring. After Fred Brown had scored the first of his three goals, Tom McCarthy took a pass from Maloney while Bruce Carmichael sat out a penalty to make it 3-0.

Canucks added their last four goals in the final period with the Cougars a well-beaten club.

Cougars played again without centre Doug Anderson, who took a whirl on the ice before the game but found his shoulder still sore, and coach Eddie Olson.

REGALS SWAMP STAMPS

In last night's other game, Brandon Regals, looking anything but last-placers, swamped Calgary Stampeders, 8-3, at Brandon to prevent the Calgary club from taking the lead in the Eastern Division.

Stamps remained tied with Winnipeg Warriors, who now have a game in hand.

A brilliant save by Lucien Dechene after Calgary had scored two quick goals in the second period to tie at 3-3 turned the tide. Regals went ahead in the last minute, then added four goals in the final 20 minutes.

They were led by veteran Pat Lundy, who scored three times, and Ray Manson, who shot his 32nd and 33rd goals.

Bruins Pass Leafs; Take Fourth Place By Blanking Wings

Boston's scrappy Bruins, refusing to be counted out of the Stanley Cup playdowns although they had to make a stretch drive against the toughest opposition in the National Hockey League, took over fourth place last night.

Playing before a smallish home-town crowd of 8,418, the Bruins blanked Detroit Red Wings, 4-0, for their third straight victory and moved one point ahead of Toronto Maple Leafs.

ONE GAME LEFT

Bruins have one game left, a Sunday night game at home against Chicago Black Hawks. Toronto gets the trailing Hawks at Toronto Saturday night and should regain fourth place but the Maple Leafs wind up their schedule in Detroit Sunday and the Red Wings may need the points to end up in second place and will be a handful.

Detroit's loss last night kept New York Rangers in contention for second place. Rangers are two points behind but have a game in hand. They play the Wings on Thursday night, then face a home-and-home series with the Canadiens Friday and Saturday.

TOUGH DEFEAT

Last night's defeat was a particularly tough one for the Wings inasmuch as former Detroit players did most of the damage. It was goalie Terry Sawchuk's ninth shutout and three other ex-Wings each scored a goal.

Vic Stasiuk got one goal and Real Chevrefils and Gerry Toppazzini also scored once each. Stasiuk came to Boston in the same trade as Sawchuk while Chevrefils and Toppazzini went to Detroit and then were reacquired in another trade after failing to get going with the Wings.

Wings protested two goals vehemently but without success. Referee Jack Mehlenbacher ruled that Stasiuk was not in the crease on the second goal and that Stasiuk had been pushed into goalie Glen Hall when Johnny Pierson scored Boston's third goal.

Sawchuk was a standout as he blocked 31 shots. In his last three games, two against Canadiens and last night's against the Wings, Sawchuk has given up only one goal.

Fraser Defends Title In Road Race Friday

Ian Fraser, who led Victoria High School to its second successive provincial high schools' cross-country championship last week, will defend his British Columbia junior open long-distance crown in the annual Britannia Branch, Canadian Legion road race Friday afternoon.

Open to all B.C. runners under 21 years, the event will be over a five-mile course, starting and finishing at Victoria High School.

TOUGH OPPOSITION

Fraser appears destined to get some tough opposition in his battle to retain the Canadian Legion Trophy against the challenges of Mainland and Vancouver Island distance runners.

Jim Pickup, captain of last year's Victoria High squad and Jim Moore, who has campaigned for University of British Columbia, are rated among the top threats for Fraser's title.

EVE RATED THREAT

Gordie Eve of Sooke, third-place finisher in the two and one-half mile race last week, has been working well in long training jaunts and could lead the way to the finishing line in the five-mile test. John Gilliland of Vic High may also be a contender over the longer distance.

In addition to the perpetual championship trophy, individual trophies will be presented to the first three finishers and crests will be awarded to the next 10 runners.

The race is scedule to start at 3.45 and late entries will be accepted today by Gordon Hartley at 7-2227.

Giants Stretch Victory Skein; Maglie Shines as Tribe Wins

By The Associated Press

New York Giants, who aren't being given much chance of winning the National League pennant, won their fourth straight game Tuesday to maintain their perfect exhibition record.

George Wilson's single with the bases filled and one out in the 11th inning gave the Giants a 7-6 victory over Baltimore Orioles. The setback was the Orioles' fourth straight.

Cincinnati Redlegs and St. Louis Cards, both with supposedly subpar pitching staffs, got some fancy hurling. The Reds blanked Philadelphia Phillies 9-0 and the Cards edged Detroit Tigers 3-2.

In other games, New York Yankees beat Boston Red Sox 3-2, Cleveland Indians whipped Chicago Cubs 11-7, Chicago White Sox trounced Washington Senators, 9-2, and in a slugfest, Pittsburgh Pirates defeated Kansas City As 11-10.

CHECK PHILS' BATS

Joe Black, Hershel Freeman and Hal Jeffcoat combined to hold the Phillies to seven hits. And their effective hurling was backed up by a good Cincinnati attack led by Wally Post and Chuck Harmon, both of whom unloaded home runs.

Wally Moon paced the Cards' offensive with three singles, but it was the pitching of Lindy McDaniel, Billy Muffett and Gary Blaylock that shackled Detroit.

The Yankees, after taking a 3-0 lead, had to stave off a late Red Sox rally to sew up their triumph. And it took a good running catch by rookie outfielder Bob Martyn in the ninth inning to cut short the Boston attack.

Sal Maglie and Chico Carrasquel made Cleveland manager Al Lopez feel mighty good. Maglie, one-time barber of the Giants, pitched three hitless innings while Carrasquel, obtained from the White Sox in a winter trade, walloped a three - run homer. Hank Sauer slammed a two-run home run for the Cubs.

The White Sox jumped on Dean Stone for all their runs in the first three innings. Stone walked seven batters and was touched for eight of Chicago's 12 hits. Walt Dropo got three of the winners' blows.

Totems To Meet Cumberland In First-Round Game Today

Victoria High School Totems, generally conceded as the team with the best chance of defeating New Westminster's Lester Pearson High school, favorite for the 1956 provincial high school basketball title, have drawn Cumberland as their first-round opponents.

Play in the annual inter-high school basketball championships will start today at Vancouver with the usual 16 finalists competing for the honor won last year by Trapp Tech.

—Trapp Tech is not back to defend this time, but only technically. A school rearrangement has enabled Trapp Tech and Duke of Connaught High School teams to become the Lester Pearson entry.

BIG TEAM

With Don Krego and George Crozier both five inches over six feet, the New Westminster school is considered a heavy favorite with only the Totems and, possibly, Alberni Valley Chieftains given a chance to handle Lester Pearson's big team.

Chieftains are drawn against Mennonite Institute, which represents the unorganized district in the province and which is one of the seven schools making its first tournament appearance.

Victoria's other entry, Esquimalt High School, is drawn against Salmon Arm. Chieftains open the tournament with their game at 11 this morning. Totems follow in the next game at 1 this afternoon and Esquimalt's game is the third one, being scheduled for 2.15 p.m.

FIRST APPEARANCE

In addition to the Mennonite Institution, the schools making their first appearance in the tournament are Cumberland, Salmon Arm, Lester Pearson, Langley, North Surrey and Castlegar.

Victoria and Vancouver College are appearing for the ninth time in 11 years. Alberni Valley is back for a seventh time and West Vancouver is playing in its sixth tournament. Mission City has played five times, John Oliver and Magee of Vancouver and Oliver have played four times while Esquimalt is playing for the third time.

Other first-round games pit Lester Pearson against Langley, West Vancouver against Mission, Oliver against John Oliver, Vancouver College against North Surrey and Castlegar against Magee.

Lower Mainland teams have won every year except 1954, when Mission City swept to the championship led by the great playing of John Koofnekoff, now with the Alberni Athletics, 1955 Canadian basketball champions.

Vic High Wins

Victoria defeated Mt. Douglas, 29-18, in inter-high schools junior boys' basketball play yesterday despite a fine performance by Ricky Blake.

Blake scored 14 of his club's points to no avail as Victoria took the league lead. Billy Wilson and Terry Varcoe each scored eight points for the winners.

Remember When:

Grant Warwick was named "rookie of the year" in the National Hockey League 14 years ago today in the annual poll for the Calder trophy. Warwick then was a rightwinger with New York Rangers. Last year he was playing - coach of Penticton Vs, who won the world hockey championship in Germany by beating Russia, 5-0, in the final.

B.C. Rink Sets Pace With One Game Left

VANCOUVER—A rink from the host Vancouver Curling Club skipped by Mrs. Jack McAllister took the lead Tuesday in the Western Canada ladies' curling championships.

After losing her first game Monday, Mrs. McAllister has won four straight and will have two chances to bring British Columbia its first title in the four-year history of the event.

Precedent is on the side of the Vancouver rink. In the previous three years, the rink from the host province has won the championship.

Provincial champions from British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba are playing a double round-robin for possession of the Eaton Trophy. Three games were played Monday, two on Tuesday and the sixth game is scheduled Wednesday morning. Should a tie result, there will be a playoff in the afternoon.

After five of the six draws had been played only the Alberta rink, skipped by Mrs. Doris Bull of Edmonton, had a chance to catch Mrs. McAllister. The B.C. and Alberta rinks play Wednesday morning and if Alberta wins, it will necessitate a playoff.

BROKE TIE FOR LEAD

In fourth round play Tuesday, B.C. broke a tie for the lead by defeating Mrs. Lillie Clark of Portage La Prairie, skip of the Manitoba champions, 12-8.

Mrs. Bull, daughter of former Brier champion Cliff Manahan, kept pace by trimming Mrs. Hazel Grigg of Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan champion, 12-4.

Five points on the last three ends in a fifth-round game gave B.C. a 12-10 win over Saskatchewan. Alberta boosted its record to 3-2 with a 12-7 conquest of Manitoba.

Standings at the end of five rounds are: British Columbia 4-1; Alberta 3-2; Manitoba 2-3 and Saskatchewan 1-4.

New Zealanders Mobbed After First Test Victory

AUCKLAND, N. Z. (Reuters)—Six thousand cheering New Zealanders leaped over the boundary fences at the Auckland Cricket Ground Tuesday to mob the New Zealand team for winning its first test match in history.

Offices and factories were empty as thousands crowded to the ground to see the final stages of the match against the West Indies, won by 190 runs. The West Indies, set to get 268 runs to win in four hours, lost the first six second-innings wickets for only 22, and were all out for 77 runs.

Every wicket-fall was cheered as if it were the last. Of their previous 44 test matches, New Zealand lost 22 and drew 22.

One of the New Zealand stars was a former West Indies player, Simpson Guillen. A wicketkeeper, he caught three West Indies batsmen in the first innings, hit 41 runs before lunch today, and stumped former colleague Alf Valentine to finish off West Indies after tea.

'If Slaughter Bothers You Then You May Leave Room'

A film taken inside a modern abatoir will be shown at the monthly meeting of the Common-Sense Health League of Victoria at 8 p.m. Thursday in the YWCA.

"[illegible] president of the league, Byron Sheridan, last night.

"For those too tender-hearted to take it, time will be allowed to leave the meeting before the showing of the film.

"The film shows in stark reality, complete with sound, the urgent need for reform in present-day slaughterhouses."

Earlier in the evening different speakers will give their own stories of how they conquered poor health by common-sense health rules.

Mother, Sons Jailed

VANCOUVER (CP) — A mother and her three sons were sentenced Tuesday to a total of 14 years in prison. All were convicted last week on charges of breaking and entering.

Mrs. Carmen Dale, 41, was given four years and a tongue-lashing by Judge R. A. Sargent for the bad example she set for her sons. Son Frank, 22, was sentenced to five years; Richard, 19, three years; and Robert, 18, two years less a day.

"The results would have been no worse if a herd of pigs had been turned loose in two of the houses you robbed," Judge Sargent told the family.

"Food had been thrown about the rooms, raw eggs and ketchup on the drapes and lighted cigarets ground into the carpet. Instead of being an example to your sons, you were their accomplice and took an active part in the break-ins, damage and stealing."

Stricken Ship Heavily Laden

SEATTLE (AP) — A cargo surveyor Tuesday told a Coast Guard investigating board that the luckless Ss. Washington Mail had only a half inch freeboard margin above the water safety line on her last voyage.

Capt. William J. Brady, surveyor for the national cargo bureau, said he found the 8,000-ton freighter burdened to capacity with a solid payload when he inspected her just before her final voyage Feb. 29 from Seattle.

However, he was "very much satisfied" with both cargo stowage and general condition of the vessel. Captain Brady told the board. All cargo was well-secured, the surveyor informed the Coast Guard investigators.

The surveyor also confirmed an earlier statement by Chief Engineer Earl Bostick that the Washington Mail was down by the stern when she sailed and had a slight port list. But neither witness considered the ship seriously endangered.

TV Team To Split

NEW YORK (UP) — Sid Caesar and Nanette Fabray announced last night that Miss Fabray will not continue on the television program "Caesar's Hour" beyond the present season.

Both Caesar and Miss Fabray said the parting was amiable.

Miss Fabray reportedly withdrew from the show because she would "like to have her own show."

Artificial Moon In Final Stage

WASHINGTON (UP) — Work is starting on a sort of souped-up and complicated Roman candle which will give the earth satellite its final push through space at 18,000 miles an hour.

The "Roman candle" is the third rocket stage of the fiery machine with which the United States hopes to launch the world's first artificial moon next year.

Contracts long since were awarded for the other stages. A new one, it was learned, has now been let for the last, trickiest and most critical stage.

The hope of scientists is that the first satellite will be shot into its orbit some time between July 1 and Sept. 30 next year.

Nobody knows whether that goal will be met. But some of the men closest to the project are operating on the theory that it will. If there is an initial failure, or even several—"we'll try again." There will be no "technological sacrifices just to meet a target date."

The navy is building the satellite. The American committee said recently the satellite would be an instrument-packed globe 30 inches in diameter. That was wrong. It will be only about 20 inches across. It will weigh about 21.5 pounds.

Death Rate Up Sharply Among Premature Babies

Thirty-two babies died in Greater Victoria because of prematurity last year, compared with 19 the year before, Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy, Victoria-Esquimalt medical health officer, reported yesterday.

In her annual report for 1955, Dr. Mahaffy said, "Why such a large number of infants are born prematurely is not clearly understood."

Total of infant deaths in 1955 was 72 compared with 45 the previous year.

Heart disease and cancer remained the chief causes of deaths in Greater Victoria, heart disease accounting for 40.5 per cent of the total and cancer for 17.5 per cent. Vascular lesions accounted for 13 per cent of deaths; violent and accidental causes, 5 per cent; diseases of infancy, 4.1 per cent; pneumonia, 3.4 per cent; diseases of the digestive tract, 1 per cent, and tuberculosis and diabetes, a little less than 1 per cent each.

Cancer was in second place as a cause of death in the age groups from one to 39, in first place for the 40-49 age group and in second place again from 50 on up.

Heart disease first became a major cause of death in the 40-49 age group, where it was in second place. It was in first place from 50 up.

The birth rate in Victoria and Esquimalt jumped from 21.8 (per 1,000 population) in 1954 to 24.9 in 1955. In Greater Victoria, it rose from 23.2 to 25.6.

At the same time, the Greater Victoria death rate climbed from 12.1 per 1,000 in 1954 to 13 in 1955.

Number of cases of communicable disease reported in Victoria and Esquimalt during 1955 was higher than in 1954. Totals for some of the more prevalent disease, with 1954 totals in brackets, were: chicken pox, 354 (123); impetigo, 67 (1); measles, 704 (512); mumps, 135 (57); polio, 21 (3); rubella, 126 (26); shigellosis, 1 (26); scarlet fever 56 (150); septic sore throat, 6 (41); whooping cough, 62 (95).

Ferry Going Into Drydock

VANCOUVER — Canadian Pacific announced yesterday its all-purpose ferry Princess of Vancouver would be temporarily withdrawn from Vancouver-Nanaimo service March 19 for annual drydocking.

Dignified Ritual Adopted by Council

ALBERNI — Added dignity and formality was the aim of a short ritual used by Alberni council for the first time at this week's meeting.

Aldermen, visitors and press stood as City Clerk Jim Sawyer ushered Mayor Ben Wright to council chambers. The mayor said a short prayer before declaring the meeting open.

Frost, Vandals Delay Kitimat Housing Unit

KITIMAT (CP) — Damage caused by vandals and frost has delayed the opening of Johnson Crooks' Model 320 Skyline Bungalor housing unit in Kitimat.

A company official said the bungalows, which had been passed by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation and Municipal inspectors, are unfit for occupancy because of smashed doors, broken windows and missing plumbing fixtures.

"More than 50 toilets have been stolen and the same number of windows have been broken," the spokesman said.

Frost has caused cracks in walls where the pre-fabricated units have been joined.

Frost depth in the area averaged three feet and foundations of the bungalows have lowered in some cases.

Municipal council has met in committee to study the problem.

Huge Ship To Carry B.C. Pulp

VANCOUVER (CP) — A pulp carrier nearly as large as the old empress ships which plied the Pacific routes before the Second World War, is being built in Japan to carry British Columbia pulp to California it was announced here Monday.

The ship, as yet unnamed, will resemble a tanker, carrying cargo in noodle or wet form from the Elk Falls Company plant at Campbell River to a Crown-Zellerback mill in Oakland, Calif., 1,000 miles to the south.

Length will be 560 feet, beam 84 feet and draft 41 feet. Gross tonnage will be 14,500.

The vessel, which will operate under the Liberian flag, is being built at Kure shipyards for Universe Tankships Inc., a subsidiary of National Bulk Carriers, Inc., of the United States.

Peerer Framed

DES MOINES, Iowa (UP) — Police investigated a woman's complaint that a man had been leering at her for more than an hour from an office building window.

The "window" was a picture frame, they said, and the leering man was a picture of a local jeweler on a sign outside his store.

Saanich Acts To Enforce Sewer Links

Saanich council made a first move Monday night to force property-owners to connect house lines with municipal sewer mains within two years of their availability.

The order is inherent in an amendment to the Sewer Connection By-law which formerly set an annual connection deadline at March 31.

However, it is mandatory that residents of Cloverdale and Gorge areas, where sewage lines have been completed, be connected by March 31 of this year or face the cost of the whole project.

"We should clear up the misunderstanding and rumors going around the Cloverdale and Gorge areas that the property owners there will also be given the two years grace," Coun. Leslie Passmore said.

"The change in the by-law doesn't apply to the outer areas where the sewers are not yet completed," he said. "The deadline date will be determined by the municipal engineer and apply to areas as soon as the sewers are made available."

Solved my IRREGULARITY problem

Writes M. Brunello, Windsor, Ont., "Since 1941 I've eaten Kellogg's All-Bran every day. I'm grateful for the way it keeps me regular. By adding hot tea or coffee, milk and sugar it becomes a flavorful hot cereal."

Good-tasting Kellogg's All-Bran has helped millions. Why not you? All-Bran corrects the common cause of constipation: lack of bulk in the diet. Try a bowl a day. About half a cup supplies all the natural laxative bulk you need daily. Kellogg's—the original ready-to-eat whole bran. Nutritious and inexpensive. For gentle, natural regularity.

Best liked by millions Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Hectic Pace Slackens At Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—The stock exchange appeared to be geared for another hectic session Tuesday when first-hour sales volume hit its highest figure of the month. Before noon however, the pace of business began to slacken and profit-taking crept in.

Coppers were mostly weaker, but selected issues were in demand. Uraniums were irregular.

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP)—Grains in flax featured trade on the Winnipeg grain exchange with commission houses and shippers making purchases.

A good trade also appeared in barley where processors, shippers and exporters were buyers. There was some indication of an export business. Prices were firm.

Oats trade was of a domestic nature and prices moved narrowly. Rye was irregular in price trade.

Quarantine Site Urged As Haven for Elderly

By R. O. MARRION

If Ottawa can be persuaded to consider old-age pensioners ahead of guns, William Head may become a haven for the elderly instead of a firing range.

First move in this direction was made yesterday when the Victoria-Esquimalt Union Board of Health recommended that the Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee study the possibilities.

[illegible]

But Mr. Reeve said it "might develop into a community in itself out there," and added:

"I think this is very heartening. It shows we're getting a little civilized."

"Services for these (elderly) age groups must be reviewed and an intensive study of the conditions under which our elderly live should be conducted," Dr. Mahaffy said.

"As you probably are aware," said Coun. G. R. Sammon of the board, "[illegible] buildings at the old quarantine station if William Head are being abandoned."

ROOM FOR HUNDREDS

"I am told there would house about 600 persons if used as a hospital.

"We might be smart to make a bid for them. We might be letting something slip by if we don't."

Dr. Mahaffy suggested the buildings might be particularly suitable for elderly persons requiring care of the boarding-house type.

"I think any action would have to be started immediately," said Coun. Sammon. "I wonder if we shouldn't set up a committee with [illegible]

How To Make a Good Husband

Respect, Understanding Essential to Marriage

This is the first of five articles by Mrs. Vic Damone, who sought an answer to the question, Is it true that behind every good man there is a good woman. There are [illegible]

[illegible] Vic Damone [illegible] Hollywood's Pier Angeli, represents [illegible] Yet there may be [illegible] of being apart in the glitter of the Hollywood night life.

Have they some magic for marriage success and happiness?

I saw Vic Damone in New York. Women sent for him to [illegible] appearance at the Copa. I saw women who [illegible] to have [illegible] his [illegible] and Mexicans.

Marriage [illegible] Americans [illegible] of [illegible] people who fall in love. It is [illegible] Love [illegible] and [illegible]. We are both Italian and we have the joy of the same religion and the same family ideals.

"It is my belief that a family who prays together, stays together. Every night, after our goodnight kiss, Anna and I pray our thanks to God. We pray for faith, health and happiness, in that order. I pray that she will always love me as today 'Please God, bless my baby.' It is in my heart and constantly repeats itself.

"We don't go to church because it is our duty. We have been raised to know it is our privilege. Sharing the same religion is a tremendous bond between a man and a woman. [illegible] please the other."

Vic intends to making a successful life out of Latin temperament, emotional and [illegible]. He is handsome, tall, dark and handsome although not [illegible] a rugged beauty. He was an usher at the New York Paramount Theatre with the hope of becoming a singer.

Today he is a star in films, night club, television, radio and his records sell millions. He earns something like a quarter of a million a year. His bride Pier Angeli is also a film star. Both are under contract to Metro Goldwyn Mayer studios.

Pier Angeli is a product of a comfortable sheltered life. It is [illegible] wasn't a boy or had a date without a chaperon before she was 19. It is reason [illegible] to believe Vic is her first [illegible] husband. She was 23. At the time she was in Hollywood she was lonely and homesick [illegible] generation unbearable.

In my work you have to [illegible] sing about the sun. When I sing of a rainy day I want to every [illegible] Anna and I were expecting [illegible] I [illegible] a beautiful [illegible] for her in Palm Springs. I left her [illegible] and my [illegible] was [illegible] I was intercepted by a [illegible] from our [illegible] New York [illegible] Anna [illegible] Pier [illegible] Pier [illegible] Anna [illegible] and I am proud and grateful for what I have. A woman should always remember that first she [illegible] that love and marriage come first. Everything she does she does for me. Then why does she remain in Hollywood and make a picture while I fill an engagement in New York at the Copa or find myself in London? Certainly I have enough money so that I can well afford to take care of her.

"I am not a martyr, at least as much as I would prefer her with me. I believe that a woman needs an escape.

Vic Damone is a new young husband deeply in love with his wife. If this love approaches a form of adoration which keeps him a good husband young Pier Angeli has a way that millions of far more experienced wives would do well to emulate. To her husband she represents a [illegible] of peace and devotion [illegible] The comparison of his wife with some of the women who try to [illegible] as a marriage [illegible] is obvious.

[illegible] please. Bring up the temperature to 325 degrees or thereabouts and let the roast cook quietly and gently.

[illegible] the question arise. Would not the natural dripping splash up the oven? No, how [illegible] keep the oven at [illegible] moderate temperature. Would all the juices run out? No, by this slow method [illegible] natural juices sealed in the [illegible]

[illegible] So, you may ask, if I am cooking a roast of beef at this comparatively low temperature how do I cook the Yorkshire Pudding that by tradition goes with it. This I admit poses a problem but I think I've solved it. Having made the batter for Yorkshire Pudding (my recipe for it follows), you put some dripping into a sparate pan and heat it on top of the stove. When sizzling hot you pour the batter into it and let it cook there for a few minutes. After it has got off to a good start you then put it into the oven along side of the meat. It will be a slightly different version from the type of Yorkshire Pudding of bygone days but it makes awfully good eating.

Here's the very simple recipe:

YORKSHIRE PUDDING

One cup flour, 1 cup milk, 2 eggs, ½ tsp. salt.

It's so simple all you do is [illegible] to sift the flour into a large bowl with a wooden spoon make a well in the centre. Put the unbeaten eggs into the well and stir with the flour from the sides gradually add the milk. When all the flour is blended beat vigorously either by hand or with a rotary beater—in other words by [illegible] means or another get the mixture absolutely full of bubbles. If time permits it doesn't do any harm to let it stand but it is not essential. Then as previously stated pour into the sizzling hot fat and bake for at least 15 minutes.

And here's our

TV Talk

By ROY PARRETT

One of the questions frequently asked is the disposition of Seattle's channel 7. Three radio stations from the Washington city are fighting for the right to operate a high-power

"Will it be over in time for me to get home to see Steve Allen?"

Hearings have been conducted by the federal communications commission and the trend was in favor of radio station KIRO, although no construction permit has yet been issued.

Whatever finding is handed down by the regulating body other interests concerned are certain to fight it.

Which means that the channel will probably be tied up in legal proceedings for some time to come.

At least that was the talk in TV circles last week, in several of the Puget Sound stations.

* * *

THE "FLICKS" — Paul Killiam will present some of the early silent film comedies on his children's program on channel 2 at 6.30 tonight.

DRAMA TIME Ralph Bellamy stars in "The Candidate," a tense drama of political intrigue, on channel 11 and 12 at 7.

WEDNESDAY FIGHT Former welterweight champion Johnny Saxton of Brooklyn seeks to regain his crown from Carmen Basilio on channel 5, at 7.

ABOUT HORSES Tonight's Disneyland story is about a colt, born out of season for a racing career and denied the glory of sweepstake and derby, who makes good in another field as a cow pony and polo mount. It is on channel 5 at 8.

LIFE STORY Fred MacMurray and Marilyn Erskine star in the musical cavalcade "It Is a Most Unusual Day," a salute to song writer Jimmy McHugh, at 8 o'clock on channel 4.

"CAPTAINS COURAGEOUS" Spencer Tracy, Lionel Barrymore and Freddie Bartholomew are seen in the first installment of this famous movie at 8, on channel 5.

HITLER'S GERMANY Hitler-impounded German films are included in the dramatic documentary "The Twisted Cross," channel 4 feature which tells the story of the rise and fall of Hitler in an hour long presentation at 9.

DIMPLES AT HOME Liberace shows viewers around his Hollywood home and also plays "Cornish Rhapsody" on his channel 12 program at 10.

LATE SHOWS Roy Rogers' musical "Gay Ranchero" is on channel 11 at 10.15. The gangster picture "Wide Boy" follows at 11.15.

CONVICT'S LIFE Fifteen years in jail and the pleading of a wife cannot convince a man he is wrong until the thrilling climax of "Road to the Highouse," 10.30 feature on channel 12.

LATE SHOWS An Italian picture with English dialogue "Brigand's Band" is on channel 5 at 10.45. Warner Oland stars in the channel 4 film, "Charlie Chan in London," at 11. "Hills of Donegal" is on channel 2 at 11.45.

Club Marks 10th Year

Celebrating its 10th anniversary, the Cordova Bay Community Club were hosts recently to over 150 members and friends at a banquet in the Community Hall. The growth of the club from its origin and the building of the hall through voluntary labor and donations was traced by past presidents K. R. Genn, H. D. Radford, G. Ross, H. [illegible] Brock and G. Kirkendale. Early club organizers especially welcomed and introduced by master of ceremonies R. W. Macmurchie were: Mrs. N. Andrew, Mrs. E. Oakes, Rev. W. H. Day, T. T. Hutchison and H. R. Bleasdale. Mention was made of the contributing efforts of E. Buckle, R. Sutcliffe, and H. Gorse, now deceased. The president, E. Jones, outlined plans for the near future.

Centre of attraction at the head table was the huge birthday cake, decorated in yellow and green and with 10 candles, cut by Mrs. E. Jones, chairman of the ladies' auxiliary.

Labor Group Neutral

OTTAWA (BUP) — Canada's new 1,000,000-strong Canadian Labor Congress will be politically neutral according to its draft constitution published Tuesday.

The CLC will be born in Toronto April 23 from a merger of the Trades and Labor Congress and the Canadian Congress of Labor.

"After two years, the constitution said, "rank and file (political) thinking can take its course."

FAMED MEDAL

Design of the Victoria Cross, patterned after the Maltese Cross, is attributed to Prince Albert, consort of Queen Victoria.

IT MAY BE YOUR LIVER

If life's not worth living it may be your liver!

It's a fact! It takes up to two pints of liver bile a day to keep your digestive tract in top shape! If your liver bile is not flowing freely your food may not digest . . . gas bloats up your stomach . . . you feel constipated and all the fun and sparkle go out of life. That's when you need mild gentle Carter's Little Liver Pills. These famous vegetable pills help stimulate the flow of liver bile. Soon your digestion starts functioning properly and you feel that happy days are here again! Don't ever stay sunk. Always keep Carter's Little Liver Pills on hand.

Election This Year Unlikely

There is little likelihood of a provincial election this year, Premier W. A. C. Bennett made this clear yesterday.

"The government is not thinking in terms of an election this year," he said, adding that he would never go so far as to say definitely there would not be an election.

"We weren't thinking of a by-election in Vancouver Centre either until certain developments took place," said the premier.

Observers took this to mean that an election is out—unless a severe opposition attack forces the government to take a "second look."

Premier Bennett said Social Credit supporters were becoming stronger every day and that the government's policies of development of B.C. did not warrant an election.

"People can differ with our theories—they can't differ with the results of this government," he said.

[illegible] USAF utility aircraft, travelling from Amarillo, Texas, to the Azores in the eastern Atlantic, carried six men to death Monday in stormy waters south of Newfoundland.

Neighbors Protest Rock-Crusher Noise

PORT ALBERNI—Operators of a rock-crushing plant are being warned of a crackdown by council for contravention of the city's new anti-noise by-law.

Property owners near the plant have complained to council that operations constitute a public nuisance.

The complaint was presented in the form of a petition signed by 36 residents of Glenwood district. Sympathy with the petitioners was expressed by the mayor.

ENDANGERS LIVES

It was claimed that the plant on Somme street keeps the neighborhood awake until 1 a.m., endangers lives of children and the traffic of heavy-laden trucks is ruining the roads.

The plant crushes rocks up to 18 inches in diameter.

George McKnight, speaking for the petitioners, said there is no wish to interfere with construction (rock is being prepared at the plant for the pulp mill extension project) but it is felt that the operations of washing and crushing could be carried on just as efficiently at the site of the rock supply outside the residential area.

The parks board was told this week that $5,000 must be spent to provide seating accommodation for the 3,000 persons expected to attend the games.

The parks board is expected to appeal to city council for the necessary funds.

CEMENT COMPANY TO BOOST PLANT SIZE

Daffodils May Miss Easter Market

Saanich growers don't expect to have more than 10 per cent of the daffodils required for the eastern Canadian Easter trade. Hothouse flowers are ready, but the field crops have been seriously slowed by cold. G. A. Vantreight, Jr., Tyndall avenue, Gordon Head, has 85 acres in daffs, 12 in tulips and three in iris. "I have orders for 250,000 dozen," he told The Daily Colonist yesterday, "and I can't confirm one of them." However, there are other markets besides the usually lucrative eastern centres at Easter, he says.

Here Mr. Vantreight demonstrates height of field growth, about five inches, when it should be eight at this time. "There won't be any bloom until 10 days after Easter," he said, "unless we get some days of 70-degree weather." There is small hope of that, growers agree. While loss in blooms may be heavy, bulbs have not been seriously affected by frost.—(Colonist photos by Bud Kinsman)

British Resent 'Rebuke'

LONDON (UP) — Britain last night formally demanded an "explanation" from the United States for expressions of sympathy to the Greek government over the Cyprus problem.

The foreign office said British ambassador Sir Roger Makins had been instructed to ask the U.S. state department "for an explanation of the statement issued by the U.S. embassy in Athens this afternoon."

Reports from Athens said that U.S. ambassador Cavendish Cannon told foreign minister Spyros Theotokis of the "sympathetic concern" of the United States over latest developments on Cyprus.

The foreign office made no mention of state department press officer Lincoln White's suggestion that negotiations with Cypriot leaders should be resumed as soon as possible.

But informed diplomatic sources said British official circles were "startled and embarrassed" by the implied rebuke of Britain's policies on the Mediterranean island.

The sources said the statements embarrassed the government at a time when Britain is trying desperately to bolster its waning prestige in the Middle East and Mediterranean.

Observers considered the American statements as evidence of a widening breach in western policy in the tense, troubled Middle East. France already has criticized the Baghdad Pact, cornerstone of western policy in the area, they said.

Expansion On Island

Bamberton Firm Plans Centre on Mainland

NIGEL TOMLIN

By ALEC MERRIMAN

An expanded and modernized B.C. Cement Company plant at Bamberton, plus newly-developed quarries at Cobble Hill, will feed a proposed distributing centre to be erected on the lower mainland.

Nigel A. Tomlin, president and general manager, told The Daily Colonist yesterday that construction would begin almost immediately on the $1,500,000 depot and distributing centre, either at Coquitlam or Burnaby.

To tap its new lime quarries at Cobble Hill, a 10-mile private road will be built from the $20,000,000 Bamberton plant, construction to start within three months, said Mr. Tomlin.

The road will require a tunnel under the Trans-Canada highway over the Malahat and will cost in the neighborhood of $150,000.

It will be gravelled this summer, eventually paved.

Mr. Tomlin said it will enable the company to get trucks off the highway and also to use larger trucking equipment.

He disclosed for the first time that B.C. Cement has been quarrying limestone for more than two years at Cobble Hill on the old Raymond property.

"There is enough lime there to do us for 50 years," he said.

He added that the B.C. Cement has "inexhaustible supplies of limestone at Texada Island, which they are now drilling and using, and more at Blubber Bay and Davies Bay.

"We have more rock now than we ever had," he said. Bamberton is nowhere short of raw materials. It is better off now than it was 30 years ago.

"I can't see the end of Bamberton in your lifetime or mine," he added.

More Employment

He said that in 1956, $500,000 will be spent at Bamberton to install a new finish mill. This will be part of the $3,000,000 expansion on the Island.

"Kiln capacity will be increased by installing a fifth unit, or alternatively by equipping existing four kilns with a pre-heater type of apparatus now being used in Germany and in some parts of the United States," he said.

The labor force at Bamberton will be "increased slightly," he added, and pointed out that B.C. Cement employs, directly, 250 persons and, indirectly, another 1,000.

The company purchases 100,000 tons of island coal each year.

Mr. Tomlin emphasized that the new expenditures on the mainland in no way indicate that B.C. Cement is planning to move from Bamberton.

"We are expanding to the mainland to provide a direct service for mainland buyers from the new depot, which will supplement existing scow shipments for bulk and sacked cement from the Bamberton works on Saanich Inlet," he said.

No cement manufacturing equipment is included in the mainland expansion.

He said approximately $1,500,000 will be spent on the mainland, involving a dock, cement silos, bagging machines, warehouses, and bulk and sacked cement trucking facilities.

Suitable property has been optioned in Coquitlam and Burnaby.

Glut Possible

Mr. Tomlin stated decision for mainland expansion had been reached in conjunction with John Reiss, a managing director and deputy chairman of Associated Portland Cement Manufacturers Ltd. of London, England, which owns a controlling interest in B.C. Cement.

Associated Portland is the world's largest producer of Portland cement.

In answer to a question involving the future of Bamberton, Mr. Tomlin stated that "the plans of the Lafarge Cement Corporation to build a cement works in the Vancouver area has in no way altered the B.C. Cement Company's expansion program."

He said he felt competition was a good thing, and the Bamberton plant would be expanded, as originally stated, to 3,000,000 barrels capacity to take care of large surges in cement consumption.

He cited such projects as the Moran Dam and Mica Creek development.

He admitted that entry of the Lafarge Corporation into the cement field in British Columbia could result in a cement glut on the market, but added, "We have to be ready for great surges in our business. There may be gluts, but all of a sudden you get a big surge."

Notorious Assassin Shot Down

JERUSALEM (AP) — The man Israelis call the most notorious hired assassin in the Middle East is dead.

An Israeli police spokesman disclosed Tuesday night that Mustapha Hassan Abud died in a hail of bullets last Friday as police chased an attacking gang away from the Israeli village of Noham.

Mustapha, alias El Samueli Vauwi, was a 33-year-old Jordanian. He lived by his tommy-gun. The Israelis say he killed with it on the orders of the highest bidder.

Budget Tax Cuts Unlikely

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Harris will unveil his 1956-57 budget at 6 p.m. MST March 20, and though the economy is showing signs of continuing a spectacular advance, prospects of major tax cuts grow dimmer by the hour.

Canadians may find Mr. Harris will shave some tolls slightly while retaining his grip on the bulk of taxes to help balance the government's books and to prevent consumers from spending too much at a time when inflation threatens.

Well-informed sources said Tuesday chances of big tax cuts may be better next year when the current economic expansion may taper off slightly. The Liberals may also be more inclined to sweeten the pot next year when, it is expected, another general election will be fought.

Princess Falls In

LA MADDALENA, Sardinia (AP)—Queen Elizabeth's 19-year-old cousin, Princess Alexandra of Kent, was reported to have fallen into the sea here Tuesday.

She climbed out, chilled but unhurt.

The semi-official Italian news agency Ansa said it happened when the princess went ashore with the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh for a walk.

Gas for Island

Start on Pipeline Across Strait Possible by May

Start on a $6,000,000 submarine pipeline from Anacortes to Saanich peninsula to bring natural gas to Victoria and to points as far north as Nanaimo may be made by May of this year, Ralph Farris of Magna Pipelines told The Daily Colonist last night.

He said the University of Washington oceanographic department has prepared an 80-page report on the feasibility of the project, and its findings indicate an early start.

Consulting engineers of Vancouver, the B. D. Bohna Company, are studying the report along with their own survey and are expected to bring in a final report within two weeks.

Mr. Farris said his company has held many conferences with pipeline contractors and so far has not encountered "one unfavorable attitude. All have been positive the job can be accomplished."

B.C. Electric Co. would distribute the natural gas on the Island and if current market analyses, now being made, indicate the necessity, a bigger pipeline than now anticipated, or multiple crossings may be constructed.

Mr. Farris said it is the aim of the distributors to supply natural gas from Victoria to Nanaimo and to sell to the large up-Island industrial market, including the Harmac pulp mill and probably, eventually, to the lumbering and pulp industry at Port Alberni.

Natural gas, he explained, could relieve the Island's power shortage.

He added that the up-Island pipeline is expected to cost many times as much as the submarine pipeline, which would be 60 per cent under water, the rest overland by way of the San Juan islands.

He said the University of Washington survey dealt with tides, currents, profile of the ocean floor, temperature changes in the water, potential earthquake hazard, and other vital data.

To make the survey, three boats were used in the Haro and Rosario straits.

Retaliation Ready

Sustained Red Attack Termed Impossible

OTTAWA (BUP)—Russia would be unable to make a sustained attack on the North American continent now or in the immediate future, Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, supreme Allied commander in Europe, told a news conference Tuesday.

Any Red assault on this continent, he said, would be a "one-sided affair." If such an attack came, he added, the West would retaliate from bases "in a 360-degree arc around the Soviet."

Gruenther said, however, that Russia probably has the power now to over-run Western Europe. But he added that when German participation in NATO forces is built up over the next four years the Reds will not then be able to over-run Europe.

READY SOON

NATO, he said will have five divisions of West German troops "in a rudimentary stage of training" by the end of 1956.

"Even if the Soviets can overrun Europe now, they would lose the war because of (NATO's) tremendous advantage in long-range air power," General Gruenther said.

Russia's long-range bomber aircraft, he said, are copies of the American B-29, the plane that dropped the A-bomb on Hiroshima. He warned, however, that the Reds are developing their long-range arm rapidly.

"I'm not saying what the situation will be like five years from now," he said. "But our aim is to make an attack so expensive it will never take place.

Copter Firm Grows

Vancouver Island Helicopters Ltd., will spend $80,000 for two new helicopters, to bring its fleet to three such aircraft here, president Ted Henson told The Daily Colonist last night.

The machines will operate out of Patricia Bay airport.

He said the two new whirlybirds will arrive from Fort Worth, Texas, by the end of April.

Mr. Henson said the new company, which started Vancouver Island's first helicopter service last August, has ample contracts to keep the aircraft busy.

"We could operate more helicopters if we could get the aircraft and pilots," he said.

He explained that helicopter pilots are difficult to find and the company has embarked on a policy of training its own from among men experienced in standard aircraft.

Rats Chew Child

In Filthy Rooms

If My Baby Dies I'll Burn That Slum!

DETROIT (UP)—The father of a five-month-old boy who was savagely chewed by rats yesterday vowed to burn his slum home if the child dies.

Empress Connors, unemployed, uttered the threat through tears after his son, Nathaniel, was bitten more than 20 times on the face and arm.

The thumb and little finger of one hand virtually were chewed away. The infant's face was raw from bites on his tongue, nose, chin and cheek by the rodents which invaded his crib.

Doctors said Nathaniel's condition was "serious" and it would be some time before they learned whether infection sets in. A hospital spokesman said a rat's bite was second in danger of infection only to that of a human.

Conpors made the gruesome discovery when he awoke early yesterday in his dark, grimy, five-room flat. His wife, Marion, 20, said she fed the baby—who has three brothers under four years of age—at 2 a.m. and noticed nothing wrong.

Policewomen described the second-floor rear flat as a "filthy hovel." They said the dwelling, one of four in the building, was unpainted and littered with debris.

Mrs. Connors was held for investigation of neglect.

Connors said he had complained about rats to the landlord, Ben Magid, and was given some powder and wood fabric and wire to plug up the holes.

"We can hear the rats in the walls at night," Connors said. "They crawl across the floor in the daytime.

"If my baby dies, I'm going to burn that place down."

Daffodils May Miss Easter Market

Saanich growers don't expect to have more than 10 per cent of the daffodils required for the eastern Canadian Easter trade. Hothouse flowers are ready, but the field crops have been seriously slowed by cold. G. A. Vantreight, Jr., Tyndall avenue, Gordon Head, has 85 acres in daffs, 12 in tulips and three in iris. "I have orders for 250,000 dozen," he told The Daily Colonist yesterday, "and I can't confirm one of them." However, there are other markets besides the usually lucrative eastern centres at Easter, he says.

Here Mr. Vantreight demonstrates height of field growth, about five inches, when it should be eight at this time. "There won't be any bloom until 10 days after Easter," he said, "unless we get some days of 70-degree weather." There is small hope of that, growers agree. While loss in blooms may be heavy, bulbs have not been seriously affected by frost.—(Colonist photos by Bud Kinsman)

Gas for Island

Start on Pipeline Across Strait Possible by May

Start on a $6,000,000 submarine pipeline from Anacortes to Saanich peninsula to bring natural gas to Victoria and to points as far north as Nanaimo may be made by May of this year, Ralph Farris of Magna Pipelines told The Daily Colonist last night.

He said the University of Washington oceanographic department has prepared an 80-page report on the feasibility of the project, and its findings indicate an early start.

Consulting engineers of Vancouver, the B. D. Bohna Company, are studying the report along with their own survey and are expected to bring in a final report within two weeks.

Mr. Farris said his company has held many conferences with pipeline contractors and so far has not encountered "one unfavorable attitude. All have been positive the job can be accomplished."

B.C. Electric Co. would distribute the natural gas on the Island and if current market analyses, now being made, indicate the necessity, a bigger pipeline than now anticipated, or multiple crossings may be constructed.

Mr. Farris said it is the aim of the distributors to supply natural gas from Victoria to Nanaimo and to sell to the large up-Island industrial market, including the Harmac pulp mill and probably, eventually, to the lumbering and pulp industry at Port Alberni.

Natural gas, he explained, could relieve the Island's power shortage.

He added that the up-Island pipeline is expected to cost many times as much as the submarine pipeline, which would be 60 per cent under water, the rest overland by way of the San Juan islands.

He said the University of Washington survey dealt with tides, currents, profile of the ocean floor, temperature changes in the water, potential earthquake hazard, and other vital data.

Growers' Appeals Rejected

OTTAWA (BUP)—Agriculture Minister J. G. Gardiner last night turned down West Coast appeals in the commons for federal assistance to British Columbia fruit growers whose plants have been destroyed by heavy frost.

Gardiner said that provincial governments were primarily responsible for replacing plants when they were destroyed or damaged by frost or flood.

"We are not going to make an exception in this case," Gardiner said. "The problem is not so costly or so difficult that the provinces cannot do it."

Mainland Distributing Centre

Big Expansion Planned By Island Cement Firm

By ALEC MERRIMAN

An expanded and modernized B.C. Cement Company plant at Bamberton, plus newly-developed quarries at Cobble Hill, will feed a proposed distributing centre to be erected on the lower mainland.

Nigel A. Tomlin, president and general manager, told The Daily Colonist yesterday that construction would begin almost immediately on the $1,500,000 depot and distributing centre, either at Coquitlam or Burnaby.

To tap its new lime quarries at Cobble Hill, a 10-mile private road will be built from the $20,000,000 Bamberton plant, construction to start within three months, said Mr. Tomlin.

The road will require a tunnel under the Trans-Canada highway over the Malahat and will cost in the neighborhood of $150,000.

It will be gravelled this summer, eventually paved.

Mr. Tomlin said it will enable the company to get trucks off the highway and also to use larger trucking equipment.

He disclosed for the first time that B.C. Cement has been quarrying limestone for more than two years at Cobble Hill on the old Raymond property.

"There is enough lime there to do us for 50 years," he said.

He added that the B.C. Cement has "inexhaustible supplies of limestone at Texada Island, which they are now drilling and using, and more at Blubber Bay and Davies Bay.

"We have more rock now than we ever had," he said. Bamberton is nowhere short of raw materials. It is better off now than it was 30 years ago.

"I can't see the end of Bamberton in your lifetime or mine," he added.

NIGEL TOMLIN

More Employment

He said that in 1956, $500,000 will be spent at Bamberton to install a new finish mill. This will be part of the $3,000,000 expansion on the Island.

"Kiln capacity will be increased by installing a fifth unit, or alternatively by equipping existing four kilns with a pre-heater type of apparatus now being used in Germany and in some parts of the United States," he said.

The labor force at Bamberton will be "increased slightly," he added, and pointed out that B.C. Cement employs, directly, 250 persons and, indirectly, another 1,000.

The company purchases 100,000 tons of Island coal each year.

Mr. Tomlin emphasized that the new expenditures on the mainland in no way indicate that B.C. Cement is planning to move from Bamberton.

"We are expanding to the mainland to provide a direct service for mainland buyers from the new depot, which will supplement existing scow shipments for bulk and sacked cement from the Bamberton works on Saanich Inlet," he said.

No cement manufacturing equipment is included in the mainland expansion.

He said approximately $1,500,000 will be spent on the mainland, involving a dock, cement silos, bagging machines, warehouses, and bulk and sacked cement trucking facilities.

Suitable property has been optioned in Coquitlam and Burnaby.

Glut Possible

Mr. Tomlin stated decision for mainland expansion had been reached in conjunction with John Reiss, a managing director and deputy chairman of Associated Portland Cement Manufacturers Ltd. of London, England, which owns a controlling interest in B.C. Cement.

Associated Portland is the world's largest producer of Portland cement.

In answer to a question involving the future of Bamberton, Mr. Tomlin stated that "the plans of the Lafarge Cement Corporation to build a cement works in the Vancouver area has in no way altered the B.C. Cement Company's expansion program."

He said he felt competition was a good thing, and the Bamberton plant would be expanded, as originally stated, to 3,000,000 barrels capacity to take care of large surges in cement consumption.

He cited such projects as the Moran Dam and Mica Creek development.

He admitted that entry of the Lafarge Corporation into the cement field in British Columbia could result in a cement glut on the market, but added, "We have to be ready for great surges in our business. There may be gluts, but all of a sudden you get a big surge."

Britain Resents Rebuke

LONDON (UP) — Britain last night formally demanded an "explanation" from the United States for expressions of sympathy to the Greek government over the Cyprus problem.

The foreign office said British ambassador Sir Roger Makins had been instructed to ask the U.S. state department "for an explanation of the statement issued by the U.S. embassy in Athens this afternoon."

Reports from Athens said that U.S. ambassador Cavendish Cannon told foreign minister Sypros Theotokis of the "sympathetic concern" of the United States over latest developments on Cyprus.

The foreign office made no mention of state department press officer Lincoln White's suggestion that negotiations with Cypriot leaders should be resumed as soon as possible.

But informed diplomatic sources said British official circles were "startled and embarrassed" by the implied rebuke of Britain's policies on the Mediterranean island.

The sources said the statements embarrassed the government at a time when Britain is trying desperately to bolster its waning prestige in the Middle East and Mediterranean.

Observers considered the American statements as evidence of a widening breach in western policy in the tense, troubled Middle East. France already has criticized the Baghdad Pact, cornerstone of western policy in the area, they said.

Budget Tax Cuts Unlikely

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Harris will unveil his 1956-57 budget at 6 p.m. MST March 20, and though the economy is showing signs of continuing a spectacular advance, prospects of major tax cuts grow dimmer by the hour.

Canadians may find Mr. Harris will shave some tolls slightly while retaining his grip on the bulk of taxes to help balance the government's books and to prevent consumers from spending too much at a time when inflation threatens.

Well-informed sources said Tuesday chances of big tax cuts may be better next year when the current economic expansion may taper off slightly. The Liberals may also be more inclined to sweeten the pot next year when, it is expected, another general election will be fought.

Notorious Assassin Shot Down

JERUSALEM (AP) — The man Israelis call the most notorious hired assassin in the Middle East is dead.

An Israeli police spokesman disclosed Tuesday night that Mustapha Hassan Abud died in a hail of bullets last Friday as police chased an attacking gang away from the Israeli village of Noham.

Mustapha, alias El Samuell Vauwi, was a 33-year-old Jordanian. He lived by his tommy-gun. The Israelis say he killed with it on the orders of the highest bidder.

Pet Ocelot Caught Eating Two-Month-Old Boy's Toes

WASHINGTON (UP)—A pet ocelot owned by an animal-loving couple chewed off all of the toes from the foot of their two-month-old boy in suburban Maryland yesterday.

Police found the ocelot, seven Siamese cats, a jaguarondi and a dog running freely in the house. The jaguarondi is a meat-eating otter-like ocelot is a small, leopard-like animal.

The baby was in serious condition in Prince George's General hospital after spending more than three hours in the operating room.

The cat attacked the baby in an upstairs nursery while the boy's one-year-old sister played nearby. The girl was unharmed.

The baby's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Perry, were away on a trip to New York.

A handyman who had been left in charge of the children during the parents' absence said he went to the nursery when he heard the baby crying.

When he saw what was happening he snatched the animal from the crib.

The handyman told police the boy had been bitten by the ocelot about two weeks ago and had been injured on his left ear and right arm.
